CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Study

Language is one important in the life of all beings. Language is an explicit and implicit feeling and thought which is orally and verbally. By language, people can make interaction and communication with the others. By the communication, people can deliver and express the information such as ideas, opinions, feelings that have own meaning. The study that is related to its meaning can be said as semantics.

According to Kriedler (1998:3) semantics is the systematic study of meaning, and linguistic semantics is the study of how languages organize and express meanings. According to Zainurrahman (2015) semantics is the study of the sentence meaning coded in the overall sentence based on the elementary meaning of the sentence units. Meaning is idea exists and coded in language, whether it is a word, phrase, clause, or sentence. Meaning is the purpose to be conveyed through language, language without meaning is just like lung without air.

Language and meaning have a deep relation because all language in verbal and visual is always imply meaning. People use language with some forms and characters in order to the other can be motivate, persuade, give more information to add knowledge, influenced, even offend or humiliate someone. All characters which offend and humiliate someone are said as sarcasm statements.

Sarcasm is form that is intended to be sarcastic or offend, mock someone or something. Sarcasm can be either insult that expresses anger by using harsh words. This title can hurt someone's feelings. Sarcasm is a more crude reference to irony and cynicism. It is reference that contains bitterness and bitter reproach. Sarcasm will hurt someone and not pleasant to hear. So, sarcasm is not just an allusion but like the emotion overflow of people who are angry because the word is used normally being rude and sounding impolite and hurt people's feelings.

According to Joshi, Bhattacharyya, and Carman (2018) in Camp sarcasm theory stated that there are four types of sarcasm such as prepositional, lexical, 'like'-prefixed and illocutionary sarcasm. Prepositional sarcasm is type of sarcasm directly leads to intent other purpose of the speaker which is indeed aimed at "insinuating". Lexical sarcasm is a type of sarcasm by expressing positive words but have deep negative effect. Like'-prefixed sarcasm indicates a statement of denial by the speaker. Last, Illocutionary sarcasm includes the whole implicature of giving rise in a special scope, such as speech expressing compassion, praise, and etc.

This situation happens in the hot issue which is about the presidential election era. Ahead of the 2019 presidential election era, Indonesian people should show good characters as citizen with evaluating the president candidate that will be chosen as the best leader of Indonesia for 5 years later. But, in fact, almost all of people show the different reactions of this situation without think the impact of it, especially in social media. Like on YouTube channel of Indonesian Lawyers

Club, @Baronpratama “02 ok lah, gak sanggup lagi liat presiden yang suka planga plongo gak jelas ,

“This statement refers to the prepositional phrase because it directly aim to insinuate to 01 president candidate. This situation @Baronpratama implied this statement that planga-plongo gak jelas refers to 01 president candidate as insinuating statement.

Based on the explanation above, the researcher are interested to analyze the sarcasm comments about presidential election. So, the researcher can take it with title “Analysis of Sarcasm Comments on You Tube in Presidential Election Era”.

B. The Identification of Problem

From the background of study, the problems of this research are formulated as follows:

1. Many people use crude language through sarcasm statement
2. Many people use the sarcasm statement in this presidential era to offend the proponent and president candidate

C. The Scope and Limitation

The scope of this research is about semantics. This analysis was limited on the sarcasm statements. To avoid the large discussion, the researcher takes Presidential election topic and YouTube as the object research to get the sarcasm comment.

D. The Formulation of Problem

There are some problems to be formulated by the researcher as follows:

1. What types of sarcasm are coded in the comments on You Tube in presidential election era?
2. How the types of sarcasm are coded in the comments on You Tube in presidential election era?

E. The Objective of Study

Based on the problems of study, the aims of this research are as follows:

1. To find out types of sarcasm are coded in the comments on You Tube in presidential election era.
2. To elaborate the types of sarcasm are coded in the comments on You Tube in presidential election era.

F. The Significant of Study

The findings of the research are expected to be useful for the readers both theoretically and practically such as:

1. Theoretically, the finding can be useful for enriching the theories on semantic and language characteristic, particularly in analyzing sarcasm statement in society.

2. Practically

a. The teachers

The teachers are expected to improve and maximize students' achievement in understanding about the sarcasm statement.

b. The students

Students are expected to increase their confidence in analyzing about sarcasm.

c. The other researchers

To increase knowledge of the other researchers to analyzed the sarcasm in English. Especially, students in English Department, FKIP UMSU who want to do a similar study about sarcasm. This study is expected can be the reference.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

A. Theoretical Framework

In conducting research, theories are needed to explain and clarify some concepts or terms used in the study concerned. The terms used in this study are needed to be theoretically explained. This framework is absolutely useful in order to give clearer understanding about all of the things related to the study. The theoretical elaboration on the concepts and terms will be presented in the following.

1. Definition of Semantic

According to Bunge Mario (1974) Semantics is the field of inquiry centrally concerned with meaning and truth of language. When brought to bear on concrete objects such as a community of speakers, semantics seek to answer problems concerning certain linguistic facts- such as disclosing the interpretation code inherent in the language or explaining the speakers' ability or inability to utter and understand new sentences of the language.

This study turn organized in such a way that we can convey meaningful messages or receive and understand messages. Semantics is that level of linguistic analysis where meaning or sense is analyzed. It is the most abstract level of linguistic analysis.

Since we cannot see or observe meaning as we can observe and record sounds. This branch of semantics is then closer of the theory of knowledge than the theory of language (Bunge: 1974). So, Meaning is related very closely to the human capacity to think logically and to understand the meaning or sense about something. When we try to analyze meaning or sense, we are trying to analyze our own capacity to think and understand our own ability to create meaning or sense.

Semantics is the systematic study of meanings, and Linguistic semantic is the study of how language organizes and express meanings. Semantic is a branch of linguistics that learns about meaning. Semantics is outside the grammar of language with morphology and syntax that are at the grammatical level of language. Semantics coverage is very broad covering all levels of language, such as words, phrases, clauses, sentences, paragraphs, and pages, (Kreidler: 2002). Thus, semantic is not only about meaning, but the science of sense, talking about sense how its starts, the sense of something; how the sense develops, and why the sense occurs in the history of language.

From the definition above, the researcher can conclude that semantics is the study about language sense, how language organizes, and how meaning implied of the language. This study is useful to know the meaning and sense that is contained or interpreted in the language.

2. Science of Sense

The sense of the word is a field of the semantic study. Semantic is one of the branch of linguistic that learns the meaning/sense of word in language, while it is a study spoken and written language that has systemic, rational, empirical characteristics as a structural and language code. Sense is an important aspect in a language because a sense will make the communication can occur smoothly and mutually understood. According to Harimurti (2008:148) suggest meaning, linguistic meaning, sense are: (1) the aim of speaker, (2) the influence of language in perception understanding or human behavior, (3) relationship that is meant conformity or disagreement between language and nature outside of language, or speech and all its designation, (4) how to use symbol of language.

In semantic, the term 'sense' is distinguished from 'meaning'. According to Beaver and Clark (2008) the meaning of sentences focus sensitive expression as if they were determined entirely by lexical meaning, focuses positioning, and syntax. But, the sense is the word doesn't not only contain lexical meaning but reaches a wider unit of language. The sense of word is related to the other sense that contains the grammatical sense based on the relationship of it.

From the explanation above, it can be conclude that a sense is field that can be meant in semantics. It is aim to know and understand about what people says and purposed. A sense wider than meaning, it is because a sense can contain in lexically and grammatically. Usually, looking for a sense of word in semantic can be got in sense of idiom, proverb, metaphor, utterance and figure of speech/locution. For this study, the researcher takes figure of speech as the brief and deep explanation.

3. Figure of Speech

Wren and Martin (1981:488) state, “figure of speech is a departure from the ordinary form of expression or the ordinary course of ideas in order to produce a greater effect.” This definition explained that figure of speech related what we called connotative meaning. A Figure of Speech is a word or words are used to create an effect, often where they do not have their original or literal meaning. Meanwhile, Ruth Miller and Robert A. Greenberg (1986:66) give definition of “figurative language, that is, a means of indirect statement that says one thing in terms of another”. The effectiveness of such usage can, of course, vary widely. It can seem foolish if it is simply showy or not especially appropriate. However, as often as not the effect can be a liveliness of expression that manages to press very closely to the essence of an object or idea while also conveying a strong sense of the speaker’s attitudes and feelings.

According Murtiani, Arifah, and Noviasuti (2016: 212) divided figure of speech into four classifications, which are respectively based on comparisons, associations, contradiction and insinuation. But, the researcher takes figure of speech based on insinuation as relation of this study.

3.1 Figure of Speech Advices: Insinuation

According Murtiani, Arifah, and Noviasuti (2016: 215) Insinuation is figure of speech that expresses sarcasm to increase the impression and effect of it toward reader. This type of blurb is divided into three kinds, such as:

- a. Irony: it is an assertion when words contradict reality sarcasm. so, like a compliment at the outset, it shows the true intent (that is, a insinuation) at the end of sentence
- b. Cynicism: it is a figure of speech that directly conveys sarcasm to the nudity. Cynicism doesn't use phrases to soften allusions such as irony, but it is also not delivered harshly.
- c. Sarcasm: it is a figure of speech that delivers sarcasm in direct harsh manner, it tends to be blasphemous.

Based on the explanation above, the figure of speech that related to insinuation is a speech that delivers to offend and insinuate someone/something. This type can be divided into three kinds, such as irony, cynicism and sarcasm. For this research, the researcher take sarcasm to analyze the object.

3.1.1 Definition of Sarcasm

Sarcasm is figure of speech as verbal irony that expresses negative and critical attitudes towards persons or events (Kreuz an Glucksberg: 1998). The sarcasm is an official included in the type of speech opposition. The word of sarcasm comes from the Greek “sarcasmos” which was revealed of the verb “sarcasein” which means ‘tear up the flesh like a dog’, ‘biting the lips out of anger’ or ‘talking with bitterness’ (Keraf, 2010: 144). Sarcasm is a derivative of irony and is rougher than irony. Main characteristic the style of sarcasm is always bitter and bitter, hurt, and less pleasant to hear. Usually sarcasm has the purpose of insinuating using harsher language rather than irony, even in certain cases sarcasm can be a mockery or insult. According to Sperber and Wilson (Quoted in Tsoory et al 2005:2088), “sarcasm is usually used to communicate implicit criticism about the listener or the situation.

Sarcasm can be used in direct or written conversation. Sarcasm in written form is usually found in literary works. Some fiction writers, such as novels for example, use sarcasm with purpose build characters that are created. Sarcasm is not only used for insinuating people or partners, but can also be directed toward a situation or idea. The use of sarcasm is usually way of expressing the expression which cannot be expressed directly. According to Henry Guntur Tarigan (1985) the main characteristic of sarcasm is it always contain bitterness and reproach, bitter heartache and awful. The use of sarcasm is usually way of expressing the expression which cannot be expressed directly.

All theories can be concluded that sarcasm is figure of speech that contains negative and critical attitude to be sarcastic and offend. Sarcasm is like bad emotions that are angry, sounding impolite, and being rude.

3.1.2 Type of Sarcasm

According to Joshi, Bhattacharyya, and Carman (2018) in Elizabeth Camp sarcasm theory, there are four types of sarcasm as follows:

- a. Propositional sarcasm, it is the sarcasm form i self/the proposition form, where propositional sarcasm is also the most type clear form. This type of sarcasm directly to leads to intent other purpose of speaker which is indeed aimed at insinuating. But between statement of proposition and intent of speaker is actually the opposite. Formal detail, there is the example:
 1. James must be hit with the ladies (Camp, 994: 21). This example at glance does not contain the element of insinuating. This situation occurs is James is not someone popular among the girl, the speaker expressed that statement by saying on the contrary with the aim of making fun of.
- b. Lexical sarcasm, if propositional sarcasm is more similar to an implicate model, this lexical sarcasm is closer to semantic model. Lexical sarcasm's type looks more closely its relationship with the evaluative scale of speaker rather than the previous type. In propositional sarcasm, statements are more pragmatic, but in lexical sarcasm. The characteristic of lexical such as it seems more natural and clear of extreme statement. But, sometimes the lexical sarcasm is expressed with positive word that has negative effect in the form of conventional relation with normative scale. For example:

1. The sentence “if Alice is brilliant, she will be the perfect dupe for our little one plan”. In this example this statement uses positive word like “so brilliant”. However, the statement is also accompanied by negative effects after that, namely “the perfect dupe”. It shows that the speaker is not sincerely praise Alice as a smart person.

2. The sentence “you are a skilled swindler, you cheat me with your big mouth, ugly man!”. In this example, this statement aim to insinuate a man with word “ugly”. It is natural affront for someone, it is also an extreme statement because related to insinuate the physical of someone.

c. Like-Prefixed Sarcasm, it is type of sarcasm is similar to propositional sarcasm, but like- prefixed sarcasm only combines sarcasm statement with sentences declarative. If in propositional sarcasm, the implicature is very strong, then like-prefixed sarcasm indicates a statement denied by speaker more clearly. So, ‘like-prefixed’ sarcasm is more likely not to cause ambiguity. For example:

1. The sentence ‘Like it is a nice cool day today’. In this example, the speaker that the weather on the day was cool, but in reality the weather is hot and the sun is shining brightly. The statement is clearer and easier to understand the content of the sarcasm by said partner because it was supported by a contradictory situation.

2. The statement “The police have a big stomach because of blackmailing money in a raid razia”. In this example, the speaker said that his perspective. The statement does not relate to the people perception, and not all police have a big stomach. So, the aim or meaning of sarcasm statement is just known by speaker.

d. Illocutionary Sarcasm, in this type, sarcasm is not only seen as an element within speech, but also as a whole which includes other speech acts accompany it. Illocutionary sarcasm includes the whole general implicature even in special circumstances, such as utterances that express compassion, praise, question insinuating, etc. For example:

1. The statement ‘how old did you say you were?’. In this example, a speaker asked about the age of the partner. But, the speakers don’t seriously ask about the age of the partner, but only satire. Speaker asks the question a form of satire towards his partner who is acting childish. Form sarcasm will later cause a reaction from his partner.
2. The statement “I hope you can get a good retaliation”. From the example, a speaker expresses a hope for someone with the word “I hope” in the sentence. But, besides that word, there is “good retaliation” refers to insinuate someone because of resentfulness of speaker.

4. You Tube

You Tube is the key international platform for socially enabled media diffusion. According to public statistics, more than 48 hours of video content is uploaded every minute and 3 billion views are generated every day. The complement the content broadcast/consume experience, You Tube connects seamlessly with major online social network (OSNs) such as Facebook, Twitter and Google to facilitate off-site diffusion. In fact, twelve million users have linked their You Tube with at least one such OSN for auto-sharing, and more than one hundred fifty years of You Tube watched on Facebook every day.

More importantly, You Tube serves as a popular social network on its own, connecting registered users through subscription that notify subscribers of social and content updates of the subscribed-to users. You Tube has developed into a prominent online video-sharing destination. The millions of video clips on You Tube represent a broad spectrum of user interest including those of educators, scholars, and researchers. Every video on You Tube sever has comment columns as form to show the watcher's assumption, feeling, idea, perception, opinion about the video. Some comments are meant to review, critic and encourage.

B. Relevant of the Study

The researcher takes any information from the previous proposal, thesis and journal. The information of the previous proposal, thesis and another journal give advantages for the researcher to finish the proposal. The researcher takes the thesis and journal that related with the title in this proposal. The information about contextual meaning in songs lyric is reference from the previous thesis and journal named:

- a. Ashwin Raja Desingan (2014), Detecting Sarcasm on Twitter: A Behavior Modeling Approach. In this thesis, the researcher explores the possibility of using behavior traits intrinsic to user of sarcasm to detect sarcastic tweets. It approaches the challenging problem primarily from a linguistic perspective focusing on the lexical and syntactic aspect of sarcasm. First, the researcher theorize the core forms of sarcasm using findings from the psychological and behavioral sciences, and some observation on Twitter users.
- b. Ruth Filik, Alexandra Turcan, Dominic Thompson, Nivole Harvey, Harriet Davies, and Amelia Turner (2015), Sarcasm and emoticons: Comprehension and emotional impact. This journal use a rating task to investigate the influence of textual devises (emoticons and punctuation marks). On the comprehension of, and emotional responses to, sarcastic versus literal criticism and praise, for both ambiguous materials. The result show that sarcastic criticism was rated as less negative than literal criticism, and sarcastic praise was rated as less positive than literal praise, suggesting that sarcasm serves to mute the positive or negative nature of the messages.

- c. Fadly Winata Rachmat (2015), Penggunaan Sarkasme Dalam Pergaulan Mahasiswa Universitas Islam Negeri Alauddin Makassar Mahasiswa Fakultas Dakwah dan Komunikasi. This study aims to find out: 1) Language acquisition of sarcasm presented by the Alauddin UIN Faculty of Da'wah and Communication students Makassar 2) What factors caused the Da'wah Faculty students and the communication of UIN Alauddin Makassar speaks the language of sarcasm. This study uses qualitative research methods with theory behaviorism. The author collects data in this study through interviews, observation and documentation. The results of the study with 10 informants showed that 1) Language acquisition of sarcasm that was raised by Faculty students Da'wah and Communication of UIN Alauddin Makassar is influenced by friendship environment (association) where when they hear it becomes a stimulus later practice it, besides that the role of the media is quite influential because of the spectacle to scathing comments on social media. 2) The causal factors of the Da'wah Faculty students and Communication of UIN Alauddin Makassar speaks sarcasm because of emotion, joking, let slip and disappointed.

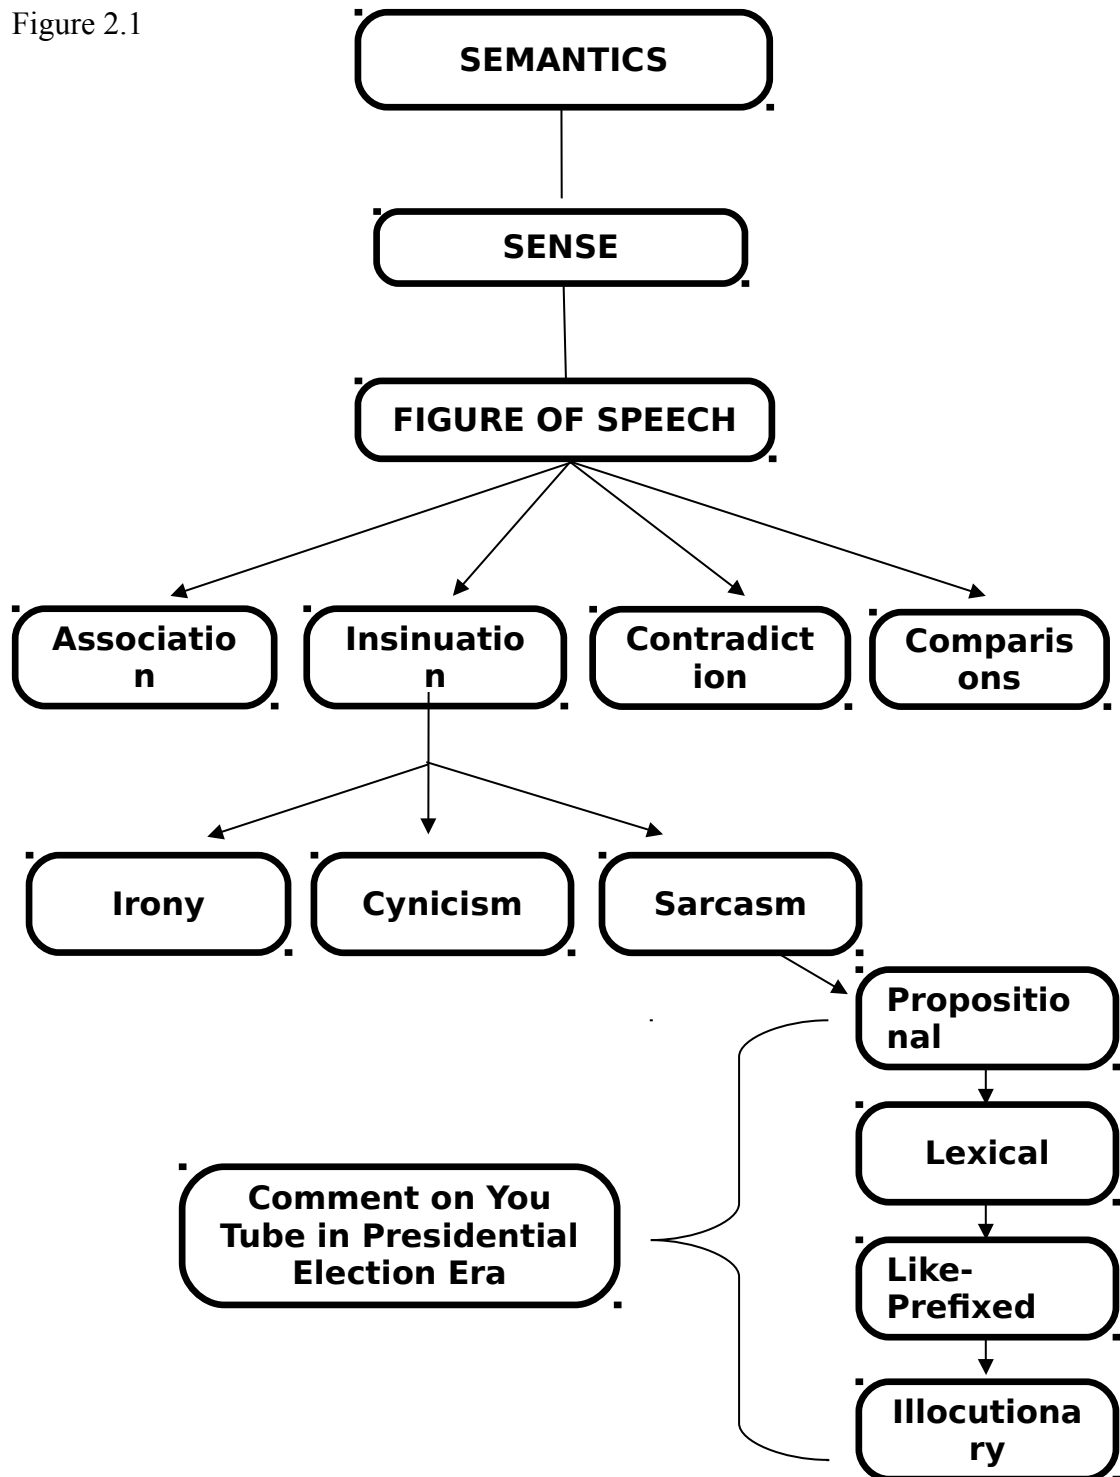

C. Conceptual Framework

Based on the theoretical framework, we know that semantics as a field of study also has significant ties to various representational theories of meaning including truth theories of meaning and sense, coherence theories of meaning, and correspondence theories of meaning and sense. Each of these is related to the general philosophical study of reality and the representation of meaning. Every language has meaning, and the people deliver the language by using a figure of language, one of them is insinuation (the figure of speech that delivers something to offend someone). This type has three sub kinds such as irony, cynicism and sarcasm.

Sarcasm is usually used to give the unhappy perceptions toward something, such as satire, insult, blasphemy and etc. this condition is often happened, moreover in this presidential election era. Many insults are got in everywhere, especially in social media. You Tube as the often place of people to show their expression and perception, primarily through sarcasm statement.

The conceptual framework as mentioned before can be drawn as follow:

METHOD OF RESEARCH

This chapter referred to the research methods of the study. It consisted of research design, the sources of data, instrument of collecting data, techniques of collecting data, and techniques of data analysis.

A. The Research Design

This research was conducted by using qualitative design. The qualitative method referred to research procedure which procedure descriptive data. According to Miles, Huberman and Saldama (2014), qualitative data are sources of well-grounded, rich description and explanation of human process. However, the use of research design was aimed to help the researcher made a better analysis. Qualitative method involved looking in –depth at non-numerical data, qualitative method think of the qualitative of data. By using this method, the data were collected to find what types of sarcasm and how the type was.

B. The Sources of Data

The data was taken from You Tube. The source of the data was taken from the comment on You Tube. By some comments on You Tube, it contained some types of sarcasm. After getting the sarcasm statements from comment on You Tube, the researcher classified and explained about the type of sarcasm.

C. Instrument of Collecting Data

The main instrument of this research was the researcher. It was because the researcher that had collected classified, analyzed, and measured the object directly. The researcher collected the data from some comments on You Tube about the presidential election that contained sarcasm statements. After that, the researcher observed the type of sarcasm.

D. The Techniques of Collecting Data

The data of this research was collected by using documentation method. The document collected and analyzed to find out the types of sarcasm. To obtain the data, several steps will be done:

1. Searching the data. The data were taken on You Tube Channel that had content about presidential election
2. Selecting the data. After searching the data, the researcher had chosen the comments that wanted to be analyzed.
3. Classifying and collecting data. The data that had been chosen, they collected and classified based on the types of sarcasm.

E. The Techniques of Data Analysis

The data was analyzed through qualitative analysis. The activities of qualitative analysis consisted of data reduction, data display and conclusion drawing (Miles, Huberman and Saldana, 2014), Based on the following theory, the research applied the following steps:

1. Data Reduction/Condensation

Data condensation referred to the process selecting, focusing, simplifying, abstracting and transforming the raw data that appear in written-up field notes. It focused on selecting, focusing, simplifying, abstracting, transforming. In this study, this step referred to: first, selecting the comments which contain the sarcasm statements on You Tube in presidential election. Second, concerning the attention to the appropriate some data that have been got. Then, the researcher focuses on the type of sarcasm and simply the data to ease in classifying data. The last, all data was collected and categorized must be transformed into table, because data display of this research is the table.

2. Data Display

Data display provided an organized compressed assembly of information that permitted conclusion drawing. A display could be an extended piece of text or diagram; chart or matrix that provides a new way of arranging and thinking about the more textually embedded data. Data display, permitted the researcher to extrapolate from the data enough to begin to identify systematic patterns and interrelationship. At the display stage, additional, higher order categories or themes maybe emerge from the data that went beyond those first discovered during the initial process of data reduction.

Data display could be extremely helpful in identifying whether a system of working effectively and how to change it. The qualitative researcher needed to discern patterns among various concepts so as to gain a clear understanding of the topic at hand. Data were displayed using a series of flow charts that map out any critical paths, decision points, and supporting evidence that emerge from establishing the data for each site. Related to this researcher, data display was used to know what the sarcasm statement and its type of sarcasm in the comment on You Tube in presidential election era.

3. Conclusion: Drawing/verifying

As drawing requires a researcher began to decide what things mean. The data was noticed regularities, patterns (differences/similarities), explanations possible configurations, casual flows and propositions. This process involved stepping back to consider what the analyzed data mean and to access their implications for the questions at hand. Verification integrally linked to conclusion drawing, entails revisiting the data as many times as necessary to cross-check or verifying these emergent conclusions.

It was the last steps to draw the conclusion from the data show in data display. Here the writer show and describe the findings after displaying the data. The conclusions of this research consisted of the explanation about how the type of sarcasm in the comment on You Tube in Presidential election era.

2. The Explanation of Sarcasm Comments and type of sarcasm in You Tube Channel

2.1 Sarcasm Comments from Jurnal Radio Channel

The classification of all the comments above were based on Elizabeth Camp's theory, the details were exemplified as follows:

1. The comment "Semoga utusan jokowi dapat mengatasi kehausan nya bowo" was found in the video which entitled "Jokowi Kirim Utusan Untuk Bertemu Prabowo! Siapa Dia?" was categorized as propositional sarcasm. propositional sarcasm referred to intent other purpose of speaker which was indeed aimed at insinuating. But between statement of proposition and intent of speaker was actually the opposite or having the other purpose. This comment included to propositional sarcasm because it was not real lastri's aim as a commentator. The word "kehausan" didn't mean someone's desire to drink something, but it had different aim. The word "kehausan" that was referred to Prabowo meant a greed or voracity to be a winner in the president election 2019-2024. The real aim for this comment was Lastri hoped that Jokowi send someone to meet Prabowo in order to handle the prabowo's greedy to be president.

2. The sarcasm comment "Presiden apa preman bos" was taken from the video which entitled "MERINDING! Pidato Jokowi di Jogja, Saya akan melawaaan!" included to illocutionary sarcasm. Based on the definition of illocutionary sarcasm such as a general implicature to insinuate someone even in special circumstances, this sarcasm more utterances that express compassion, praise, offensive question, etc. the comment was illocutionary sarcasm because the commentator did not ask seriously about the profession between president or civilian, but the commentator insinuated his attitude that referred to Jokowi like civilian. The comment was offensive question for Jokowi.

3. Next, the comment “Dikira onta Ternyata keledai,,gue kira elu cerdas ehh taunya pandir” given by Ainur Rofiq in the video “Pantun Ustadz Haikal Soal Jokowi Pulang! Inikah contoh usatadz Politik Itu?” was lexical sarcasm. One of characteristics of lexical sarcasm was extreme statement in the form of conventional relation and expressed with positive word accompanied negative effect. This comment was lexical sarcasm because he asserted with poem in the beginning of his statement that was positive statement. But, the connection of the poem had negative statement which real meaning from the commentator. The statement “gue kira elu cerdas ehh taunya pandir” was mean stupid and it referred to Prabowo’s proponent.
4. Then, The sarcasm comment Muka kulitnya kan tembem jadi udah tak punya malu lagi” was taken in the video which entitled “Prabowo Kampanye Akbar ”BOHONG AKBAR” Hemmm..?” was like-prefixed sarcasm. Based on like-prefixed sarcasm definition, this type was indicates a statement denied by speaker more clearly. Like-prefixed’ sarcasm is more likely not to cause ambiguity and the aim of the sarcasm could be understood by the speaker itself. So, this comment was like-prefix sarcasm because not all people that had chubby face had no shame. The statements didn’t refer to all people perspective about chubby face. The sarcasm meaning was just the commentator's perspective. So, the aim of statement was just known by the commentator.

2.2 Sarcasm Comments from CNN Indonesia Channel

In the previous page, researcher displayed 10 sarcasm statements in each type according to theory of Elizabeth Camp. In this channel, the researcher took 9 sarcasm comments that was represented one comment for one type such as:

1. First, the comment “Kalah menang sudah biasa, tapi kalah melulu memang luar biasa” took from the video which entitled “Prabowo Kecewa Tapi Ikhlas Terima Putusan Sidang MK”. This comment included to lexical sarcasm because this type was natural and clear of extreme statements in the sarcasm form. The commentator told that Prabowo was foolish man if he speaks without text. This comment was lexical sarcasm because the meaning of the comment that commentator mean was real and clear meaning.
2. Then, the comment “Kalah menang sudah biasa, tapi kalah melulu memang luar biasa” in the video which entitled “Prabowo Kecewa Tapi Ikhlas Terima Putusan Sidang MK”. This comment was propositional sarcasm. As known that propositional sarcasm had statement was opposite with the real meaning. The comment included to propositional sarcasm because the commentator used positive word with “luar biasa” word, but it did not mean to praised Prabowo as a great man. The commentator aimed to insinuate Prabowo because he never wins on the presidential election for three times.

3. Next, The comment “Ko salah input bisa menang.. ya..” was illocutionary sarcasm. The comment was taken from the CNN Indonesia You Tube Channel which entitled “Sah! Jokowi Menang Ungguli Prabowo di Pilpres 2019, Ini Selisih Suara & Persentasinya!” was said as illocutionary sarcasm because the comment was not aimed to asked and want to know about the wrong of inputting the voice in president election, but the commentator just want to insinuate the cheating proponent.

2.3 Sarcasm Comments from metrotvnews Channel

As seen on the table 4.3, there were 5 sarcasm comments that have been categorized based on type of sarcasm proposed by Elizabeth Camp. Each type would be:

1. First, The sarcasm comment taken from metrotvnews You Tube Channel which entitled “Kalah 16,9 Juta Suara! Prabowo Gugat ke MK”. The comment “Ada yang perlu kalian tau. Prabowo itu sakti, karena punya ilmu NGEYEL&NGAK TAU MALU..”. This comment was included to propositional sarcasm because the comment was not aimed told Prabowo was a man that truly had supernatural power. The next sentence commentator told that Prabowo was stubborn and no shame power, it meant that commentator aimed to insinuate Prabowo.
2. Second, The sarcasm comment taken from the metrotvnews You Tube Channel. This comment was found in the video which entitled “Kalah 16,9 Juta Suara! Prabowo Gugat ke MK”. The comment “Gugat ke alam goib sana loh kan itu kelompok kumpulan genduruwo” which was given by Adrr forever 3 months ago. This comment was included to lexical sarcasm because the comment was meant to the real meaning. The commentator told that Prabowo should claim to the other world or to the GAIB. The commentator used word “genduruwo” it referred to ghost or devil and the commentator assumed that Prabowo’s proponent was a ghost company.

3. Then, The comment “Hanya orang2 bodoh yang percaya kalau pak bowo menang” taken from metrotvnews You Tube Channel. This comment was found in the video which entitled “Prabowo Terjebak Ilusi Kemenangan”. This comment was included to lexical sarcasm because the comment was meant to the real meaning. The commentator told that prabowo’s proponent stupid because they believed prabowo win the election but the fact was not. The commentator aimed to tell prabowo’s proponent was stupid and this was real meaning.

4. Next, The comment “PRABOWO SEMAKIN TAK WARAS AJA” taken from metrotvnews You Tube Channel. This comment was found in the video which entitled “Prabowo Terjebak Ilusi Kemenangan”. This comment was included to like-prefix sarcasm because the comment was not relevant with real condition. The commentator told that prabowo crazier because he claimed that he wins the election but the fact, Jokowi that win the election based on the real count. This comment included like-prefix because the statement was not relevant with the real condition.

5. Finally, The sarcasm comment taken from the metrotvnews You Tube Channel. This last comment was found in the video which entitled “Akankah Prabowo Ucapkan Selamat ke Jokowi”. The comment “Orang sombong kaya prabowo matinya bakal susah bumi gak bakal nerima!!!”. The commentator judged that Prabowo was arrogant and commentator told that Prabowo would had trouble when he dead. This comment was included to lexical sarcasm because the comment was meant to the real meaning.

The commentator told that KPU was best liar company, BAWASLU was a jinx. This comment was not appropriate with the real condition. As we know that, KPU meant General Election Commission, while BAWASLU meant Election Supervisory Agency. The commentator assumed that KPU and BAWASLU could adverse the Prabowo’s proponent.

2. Second, the comment “Cebong+Kampret berdamailah please keluarkan kata yang bijak biar hasilnya bijaksana”. This comment was found in the video which entitled “[FULL] Sidang Sengketa Pilpres 2019 – Mendengarkan Saksi TKN”.
