CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of Study

Language is the people's device to interact to other people. People use language to express their feeling, ideas, and opinion. Icbay (2008) argued that through interaction, the participants share what they know, how they do what they know, what they feel, what they think and what they plan to do. The interaction is supported by language variant. It is used to make communication more effective, interesting and enable students enjoy the conversation. In language variant, Fasold (1996) explained that the speakers may choose two languages involving code switching, code mixing, and use set of variant within the same language. Languages vary from one place to another place, from one social group to another social group, and from one situation to another situation are different. As we can see, speakers can use code-switching, code-mixing and various languages where the purpose or content remains the same according to the situation at hand.

The cases happen when somebody agrees with the language variant correlated to language selection because she or he wants more exertion to figure out the meaning. Variation indicates that not every speaker speaks same system all the period. According to Akmajian & Harnish (1998), there are some examples of language variations that are of interest to linguist such as lingua francs, pidgins, creoles, jargon, slang and taboo languages. So the language variation that can be used in this research is slang which is part of the language variation. This research focuses only on slang as a language variation.

Currently, slang has become a phenomena that is unique to the millennial generation only for city dwellers, but also for them. People reside in villages are familiar with slang language as though it were popular among millennials era. Nevertheless, parents and grownups criticized the grammar and voice of the challenging language spoken by their kids be comprehended. Additionally, social media is increasing at the moment, starting with Send Short Message Service (SMS) to Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, WhatsApp, etc. The use of social media accompanied the growth and the spread in the period of the millennial generation, not only both in its writing and in its pronunciation.

Slangs are very common and close to speakers of any language, although they are used mostly in informal communication. Zhou & Yanhong (2013) said that slang is highly informal and is often used in colloquial speech. In reality, slangs are commonly used by teenagers and adolescents alike in casual or daily communication. Slang is language (words, phrases, and usages) of an informal register that members of special groups like teenagers, musicians, or criminals favour in order to establish group identity. Slang is often used by millennial generation in daily life conversation.

According to Strauss & Neil (2000), millennial generation refers to the generation of people born early 1980's as starting birth year and the mid1990's to early 2000's as ending birth years. Slang words used by millennial generation can be found in their social media such as Instagram, Facebook, WhatsApp, Twitter, etc. In sociolinguistics, the linguistic phenomenon in Instagram social media can be said to be a variation slang. Variation of slang is a variety of very informal vocabulary, this language is common used in conversation or communication by people who know each other well (Swan, 2005). Therefore, variations of slang are very widely used as a tool to communicate with closest people such as friends, family so that various languages appear but still with the same purpose or content. Words related to ideas and people's new habits and one of the styles This informal language is done by almost all people in language.

In this modern era, where technology rules the world, people's language develops the following technology. For example, it is the internet. On the internet, people are free to communicate with other people with different styles and accents of language. In this online communication,especially social media, people usually use many styles or slang words to communicate with each other. Today, people cannot be separated from social media. Social media such as facebook, twitter, Instagram, etc are several kinds of social media that are popular now.

Instagram is a social media that allows someone to post a photo or video. There are many accounts on Instagram that supply a source of news or information and a source of entertainment. Instagram is an application that allows users to upload photos or videos to the service. Users can follow, like, and comment on other users to add their content to a feed. And also users can add some caption and location when users post a photo or video. A caption is a short phrase or sentence which usually explains the posting. Users may write whatever they want for the captions. Because of this, the rule of language is not obeyed and may cause a style of language.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

A. Literature Review

1. Language Varieties

Barzan & Heydari (2019) the term linguistic variation (or simply variation) refers to regional, social, or contextual differences in the ways that a particular language is used. In sociolinguistics a language variety, also called a lect, is a specific form of a language or language cluster. It is a general term for any distinctive form of a language or linguistic expression. This may include languages, dialects, registers, styles or other forms of language, as well as a standard variety. The use of the word "variety" to refer to the different forms avoids the use of the term language, which many people associate only with the standard language, and the term dialect, which is often associated with nonstandard varieties, thought of as less prestigious or "correct" than the standard. Linguists speak of both standard and non-standard varieties.

"Lect" avoids the problem in ambiguous cases of deciding whether two varieties are distinct languages or dialects of a single language. Linguistic commonly use language variety as a cover term for any of the overlapping subcategories of a language. Variation at the level of the lexicon, such as slang, argot, jargon, register, and idiom is often considered in relation to particular styles or levels of formality (also called registers), but such uses are sometimes discussed as varieties as well.

2. Sociolinguistic

According to Agustina & Chaer (2010), sociolinguistics is a field of science that focused on language in society which is closely related to the use of language on social media instagram. This can be studied through language variations in sociolinguistics. Sociolinguistics pays attention to use of language in speaking communities. With thus, it can be said that sociolinguistics is an interdisciplinary field that learn language related to the use of language in society itself.

The science that studies the relationship between language and language society is sociolinguistic. In contrast to the field of linguistics, sociolinguistics puts empirical data by paying attention to context users, namely the social context that accommodates them. Sociolinguistics consists of consists of two words, namely socio which means society and linguistic which means language studies. So, sociolinguistics is the study of language which associated with social factors or social factors.

In sociolinguistics, the linguistic phenomenon in Instagram social media can be said to be a variation slang. Swan (2005) said that variation of slang is a variety of very informal vocabulary, this language is common used in conversation or communication by people who know each other well. Words related to ideas and people's new habits and one of the styles. Prayogi (2007) said that this informal language is done by almost all people in language. Its function is to keep secret conversations from outside the group, as well as to establish intimate relationship between them.

Factors that cause language heterogeneity are situational factors and speaker background. Situational influences give rise to language variants which is called variety and register, while the background factor of the speaker gives rise to language variations called dialects (geographical, age, social) and hold on.

As an object in sociolinguistics, language is not seen or approached as a language, as general linguistics does, but rather seen or approached as a means of interaction or communication within human society. Therefore, regardless of the formulation of Sociolinguistics given by experts cannot be separated from the problem relationship of language with activities or social aspects.

3. Slang

Holmes (2001) said that people in a society may speak some varieties of language in accordance with different social situation they meet. It is true that people should know whether they are in informal or formal situation. When people speak, it is important in choosing appropriate language that will be used, formal style or informal one. Slang is a versatile vocabulary new and always changing. Slang is an informal language variety and not standard which is seasonal. Usually used by social groups certain to communicate internally so that those who are not members of the group don't understand. Slang is a change of words from a language with certain patterns without changing the content, sound and antics of the message.

Chaer & Leoni (2010) Slang is a social variation that is special and secret. It means, this variation is used by certain circles which are very limited, and not known to people outside the group. Therefore, vocabulary used in this slang is always changing. Slang is temporal and is more commonly used by subjects young. Because this slang is group and secret, it gives the impression that this slang, the secret language of thieves and criminals, but actually it is not so. This secrecy factor also causes vocabulary used in slang changes frequently. Slang is used as a social language. Slang vocabulary can be shortening of words, the use of natural words is given a new meaning or vocabulary that is all new and changing. In addition, slang can also be: reversal of sound system, vocabulary that is commonly used in society becomes weird, funny, some even have different meanings.

Generally, every country has their own slang in their language. In Indonesia, slang could be found in daily conversation and most of teenagers or young people use it, such as cupu (old-fashioned), nyokap (mother), bokap (father), keren (cool), etc. In this modern area, slang can be found in the conversation of the teenagers and young people. They give the great contribution of the forming of slang. In other words, with such a variety of language, it creates more fluent in conversation, more intimate, and it agrees with an informal situation. Maitland (2010) defined that slang is the language, which though unrecognized in dictionaries, is in common daily use not only among the vulgar but in every branch of life. It means that slang is the secret language of the English or something that everybody can recognize but nobody can define. The uniqueness of slang, it changes like fashion, when it is trend, everyone will use it.

Slang is the non-standard utilization of words in a language and it is ordered as a piece of language in a general public. Ismail (2014) said that slang isn't language or dialect, it tends to be said as a code that item by changing the current language to the normal one. Each language has a jargon, elocution, and syntax, while slang has not. It simply has jargon which isn't obscenity and ungrammatical. The type of slang can be an entire sentence yet typically slang is classified as a word. Slang can be depicted as digressing away from standard language use. Slang is a sort of non-standard utilization of words in a language and some of the time the production of new words are from another dialect. The spreading of slang is extremely quick, particularly among millennial age. It is brought about by the impact of media like TV, radio, web, and etc.

4. History of Slang

Patridge (1950) state that collection of early slang language was first used by british crooks developed in the 16th century. Therefore creates new speech types used by criminals and con artists, the meaning is growing mostly in bars and gable houses. English criminals were originally believed to be foreigners, meaning that scholars think it is good come from Romania or have a relationship to France. The British thug slow developing. In fact, out of four millions of people who speak English, only about ten thousand speak English criminal. At the end of the 16th century, this new style of speech was considered be a language without reason or command.

a. Sixteenth Century

Slang for the first time in the society and became the strange language, also only particular group was using it. For instance, thieves, beggar, criminals, etc.

b. Seventeenth Century

In this century, slang was rich of metaphors or figurative language and related to immoral action. Moreover, slang began into present in popular plays event and put the slang language 1on the stage for the first time, such as in Richard Brome's comedy A favial Crew and in one of William shakesperae's poem in the word hick.

c. Eighteenth Century

The rhetoricians had established for the first time among the pupils and schoolmates alike, a key element in social conceptualization of slang. Furthermore, slang recognized as a part of English vocabulary.

d. Nineteenth Century

Slang was growing, it could be seen that the intellectual produced the first slang dictionary (1899). The World war I and II also influenced in slang language, such as G.I, Pissed off, brass, etc.

e. Twentieth Century

Slang become a part of spoken language and not only used by thieves or ciminals but also used by ordinary people, and slang was used in daily conversation because simpler and easier to speak it.

5. The Features of Slang

Zhou & Yanhong (2013) states slang differs significantly from the language in general. Slang incorporates words with added meaning in a new style, which contrasts with grammatical structure. Slang has some features that set it apart from formal language, including:

A. Humor

Users of slang refer to it as "comedy" because of its comical effect. Slang's phonetic comedy was initially used to describe its hilarity. It makes use of euphony to achieve the goals of being readable and vibrant as well as easily comprehended and remembered. In American slang, rhyme is a typical phonetic technique to get a hilarious effect. People may perceive a sense of rhythm in sounds thanks to the use of rhyme in slang.

Table 2.1 Humor Expression

No	Humor Expression	Meaning in Formal
1	Bilu	Baby i love you
2	Bestie	Best friend
3	ASAP	As soon as possible

B. Conciseness

One of the main features of slang is conciseness. This can be achieved by using shorter words or words that are combined to describe longer ones.

Table 2.2 Conciseness Expression

No	Conciseness Expression	Meaning in Formal
1	Fav	For the favorite
2	Bro	For brother
3	Chic	For trendy

C. Originality

Slang is a dialect developed by young people who like manipulating words, renaming objects and acts, creating new terms, or shortening existing phrases for the sake of fashion. Few people create slang phrases for novelty's sake and others who want to appear fashionable copy them.

Table 2.3 Originality Expression

No	Originality Expression	Meaning in Formal
1	Think-machine	Brain
2	Sparkler	Diamond
3	Pickers	Hands

D. Instability

Slang can evolve quickly. The users will soon forget the outdated terminology due to a new vocabulary. Old slang loses its novelty and becomes worn down; as a result, it is now accepted and used as standard English. For example, the word "gay" in the sense of homosexuality was not used in slang during the 1930s, but it is now accepted and part of everyday speech. This instability slang is only used for a short period.

6. Reason for Using Slang

According to Allan & Burridge (2006), there are seven reasons why people use slang, including:

1. To Address

When speaking to another speaker, the phrase is to keep things close. Because utilizing a formal address to the speaker implies a distant relationship or a special goal with the other speaker, someone with a close relationship typically prefers to utilize the type of informal address.

Table 2.4 Example To Address using Slang

No	Person	Content
1	Man	You look so pretty my sweetheart.
2	Woman	It's just your bullshit. Don't I look beautiful every day?

The slang word “sweetheart” is used by a man because he loves the woman. In other words "sweetheart" is addressed to our loved ones.

2. To Initiate Relax Conversation

To create a casual discourse, the speaker will occasionally prefer to employ slang rather than conventional speech. People with close relationships often use particular jargon to let the conversation flow more easily and make them feel more at ease.

3. To Humiliate

Using slang words to mock someone or something by expressing feelings of displeasure or dislike.

4. To Form Intimate Atmosphere

People like to utilize slang phrases rather than formal words to convey personal ties and create an intimate atmosphere. Slang is another option for making a connection with a total stranger easier, more comfortable, and lessening association distance.

5. To Express Impression

The speaker wants the listener to remember and be impressed by their conversation, thus they utilize slang words. To convey their intended message clearly, reflect their impression, whether it is a positive or negative one. Slang usage creates an impression.

6. To Reveal Anger

Using slang to express fury entails making the anger sound diplomatic. The speakers who are in intimate connections frequently curse others instead of using conventional language to express their anger.

7. To Show Intimacy

They make an effort to match the listener's talk with their own. They alter it to the language they think the audience will find more appealing. When speaking to strangers, speakers typically use formal language, but when speaking to friends, they prefer to use slang to convey the closeness or unity of their friendships.

7. The Types of Slang

The types of slang will find in various literature, like books, dictionaries, journals, etc. Allan & Burridge (2006) states that there are five types of slang. It can see the explanation as presented in the table below.

Table 2.5 The Types of Slang

No	Types	Explanation	Example	Meaning

1	Fresh and Active	Fresh and creative slang refers to words that have an entirely fresh vocabulary, informal variety, ingenuity, imagination, and the potential to be current. We may not be aware that some terms that are already known to us in our vocabulary are slang.	Daddy	Ayah (daddy is a term of address for men, particularly elderly men.)
2	Flippant	Flippant refers to slang language formed of two or more words where the individual words do not have any relationship to one another's denotative meaning	Break a leg!	Semoga sukses! (the slang word "break a leg" denotes success for an actor. It is a form of theatrical superstition to believe that wishing for good fortune may tempt fate.)
3	Imitative	Imitative refers to slang terms that imitate Standard	Gotta	Harus (this slang word is a

		English (SE) words, use SE words in new contexts, or combine two distinct words.		combining of the words “got to”)
4	Acronym	An acronym is a type of slang created by combining the initials of each word in a phrase to form a word, or by combining the initials of a set of words or syllables to create an acronym	NASA	National Aeronautics and Space Administration
5	Clipping	One type of slang known as "clipping" is created by removing some lengthier terms to create a shorter version with the same meaning.	Exam	Ujian (an ‘exam’ is a short form of ‘examination’. It still has the same meaning. But should be noted that the slang word ‘exam’ is not appropriate to use in formal conversation.

8. Teenager

The word of teenager has many different meanings. Some interpret teenager as a group of people who are growing up, there is also a mean teenager as children who are full of turmoil and problems, there is also a mean teenager as a group of children full of spirit and creativity. Ali & Ansori (2016) described teenagers, which in the original English means "to develop or grow for" to reach maturity," is the term used to describe teenagers. Teenager is often referred to as puberty. Hurlock (1997) said that puberty is a phase in the developmental range when children change from asexual beings to sexual beings.

According to Mappiare (1982), takes place between the ages of 12 - 21 years for women and 13-22 years for men. This teen age range can be divided into 2 parts, ie age 12/13 - 17/18 years are early teenagers, and the age of 17 / 18-21 / 22 years is the final teenager. According to the laws of the United States today, individuals are deemed to have grown up if they have reached the age of 18 years, and not 21 years as previously stipulated. The adolescence, originally called adolescence, is derived from the Latin adolescence meaning "to grow / grow to reach maturity". Further development of the term adolescence actually has a broad meaning, including mental, emotional, social, and physical maturity. This view is supported by Piaget who says that psychologically, adolescence is an age in which individuals become integrated into adult society, an age where children do not feel that they are below the level of the older individual but feel the same, or at least parallel.

9. Instagram

Manovich (2015) said that from a single device, on the Instagram application, you can take, edit, and publish photos, view photos of friends, find other photos through searches, interact with them (like, comment, repost, and post to other networks), and engage in conversation with the authors of the photos and other commenters, create photo collections, rearrange the photos, etc. Instagram is a photo- and video-based social networking platform.The Instagram application can only be run on mobile devices such as smartphones. This app is a photo and video sharing social network like other programs. It's just that the most different is the photo display Instagram is characterized by square “frames”. Instagram was created by Kevin Systrom and Mike Krieger and launched in October 2010. Name Instagram, according to them, is a combination of "instant camera" and Instagram “telegram”.

Instagram now can be installed on a variety of mobile phone operating systems, from the Apple App Store, Google Play and Windows Phone Store. Instagram is a popular social media in the world, including Indonesia, which has millions of members from various account types. Even though there's a lot of Instagram used as a social media, many people do not know the meaning of the word the. Instagram is composed of two words, namely “Insta” and “Gram”. Insta taken from the term “istan” or fast/easy paced. While "Gram" is taken from "Telegram" which means it is associated as a medium for sending information very quickly (Tim Center for Public Relations of the Ministry of Trade of the Republic of Indonesia, 2014: 84). From the use of two words. From this, it is concluded that Instagram is a social media for create photos and send them in a very fast time.

Rezeki, T. I., & Sagala, R. W. (2019). The title of his study is Semantics Analysis of Slang (SAOS) in social media of Millenial Generation. This research paper investigated: the classification of SAOS, the meaning of SAOS, and the reasons for using SAOS used by the millennial generation in social media. The research applied a descriptive qualitative method of research. The data was collected by observation, documentation, and interviews from fifty students in the English Department at Universitas Islam Negeri Sumatera Utara who were active on social media like Facebook and Instagram. The result showed that the millennial generation used five classifications of slang in their social media (33 slang languages on Facebook and 33 slang languages on Instagram), namely: fresh and creative, flippant, imitative, acronym, and clipping. The purpose of this study is to examine the varieties of slang used by the millennial generation on Instagram, how they use slang and the motivations behind their usage of slang. In this study, descriptive qualitative research was used to collect data from 30 millennial generations' conversations on Instagram. The information was gathered through observation, interviews, and record-keeping. The analysis of the data revealed that the millennial generation used 31 slang words in their Instagram captions, demonstrating their use of slang words in communication. These words included five different sorts of slang: clipping, imitative, flippant, acronym, fresh and creative. The millennial generation used slang on Instagram for a variety of purposes, including to address, start relaxing dialogue, make someone feel bad, express impression, and show intimacy.

Budiasa, I. G. (2021). Slang Language in Indonesian social media. This study tries to analyze the function of slang particularly used in social media. The researcher used qualitative documenting techniques for data collection. The data were taken from various social media such as Instagram, Facebook, Twitter, and WhatsApp. The findings show that the forms of slang found on social media are very diverse, creative, and active including fresh and creative, flippant, imitative, acronyms and clipping.

Putra, I. M. Y. D. (2018). Types of Slang Words in the Movie Script of Sausage Party. This study aimed to analyze the types of slang words and their types of meaning found in the Sausage Party movie script. The research used a descriptive qualitative method and presented the theory of Allan & Burridge (2006) which consists of five types and the supporting theory by Geoffrey Leech (1974) which consists of seven types of slang words. The data were taken from the internet on Tuesday, September 5, 2017. The findings indicate that fifty slang terms were examined in this study. The majority of the slang in this movie script is created from two or more words and has a unique meaning that is distinct from the meaning of the original word. The study's slang definition largely captures the expression's implied meaning. We can infer that the Sausage Party script uses somewhat elitist language.

The similarities that we can see from previous and current research are the same research on slang on social media. The differences found in previous researchers, in the second study, are the classification of SAOS, the meaning of SAOS, and the reasons for using SAOS used by the millennial generation in social media, and the fourth study analyzes the function of slang particularly used in social media and the fifth types of slang words in the movie script of sausage party. Therefore, the purpose of this study is to become a reference for the research I do because the research topics are not much different.

C. Technique of Data Collection

The data collection technique needed was the right technique so that it can actually be obtained from valid and reliable data. The techniques used are as follows:

1. Observation

Observation is a systematic observation and recording technique of the phenomena being investigated. Observation is a way to get information by observing objects carefully and planned. The observation data taken from comments Instagram.

3. Data Display

Data display is an organized, compressed assembly of information that allows conclusion drawing and action. The most frequent form of display for qualitative data is an extended text such as tables, charts, or graphics. Visual displays provide a multidimensional space to organize data and show connections between different pieces of relevant data. This research displays the data analysis of texts consisted in the comment instagram.

4. Conclusion Drawing and Verification

Conclusion was the goal to answer the questions as completely the previous studies and verification is as brief as a fleeting to develop notion about this research more explicity. The research concludes the data according to the formulation of the problem that has been put forward. The data that have been described in general are summarized. It means, in this step the researcher gave the clear information of the result and then draws the conclusion or verification the result.

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusions

After being analyzed as a whole, it can be concluded that:

1. Slang analyzed sourced from Indonesian and English, and slang was also formed due to changes in syllables and abbreviations
2. Slang can be analyzed in types of Fresh and Active, Flippant, Immitative, Acronym and Clippant. Slang can also threaten the existence of the Indonesian language because of its emergence that shifts the use of the existing Indonesian language and has been widely used by people, especially by teenagers
3. Slang language often used by teenagers, it is due to its confidential nature and so not many people know what these teens are saying. Teenagers also feel that slang is cool to be used by them

B. Suggestions

1. The researcher hopes that the use of the existing language is adjusted to the rules of the existing Indonesian language so that it can be understood by the whole community.
2. Researchers hope that people pay more attention to the phenomenon of language that develops in the community and to avoid emerging languages that have the potential to damage the existing Indonesian.

3. Researchers hope that there will be a special institution that oversees the emergence of slang that develops in the community and collects it as findings that may be a new richness in language.
4. The researcher hopes that further research will further explore this research so that the problems examined and described in previous studies can bring up solutions to the threat of damage to Indonesian
