CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of The Study

Human being express their idea, emotion, and desire by using language. Sometimes in the language, we can find unconsciously or write sentences which are not clear or vague in meaning. As the results, the receiver confused in catching what we want to express and what we mean. This happens since sentences may be ambiguous or have more than one meanings. Because the sentences can be interpreted in more than one ways.

One of the ways is by using idioms. English is very rich in idiomatic expressions. The idiomatic expression is defined as an accepted phrase or expression having a meaning different from the meaning of the individual words. In fact, it is difficult to speak or write English without using idioms. An active English speaker is very often not an aware use of idiom. A non-native learner makes the correct use of idiomatic English one and that fact some idioms are grammatically incorrect causes difficulty, only careful study and exact learning will help. Idioms take exciting words, combined in a new scene and bring for new expressions.

Every language has idioms which can make it more interesting because idiom always gives unique meaning, not meaning. Raymond (1993:10) Idioms are like a common word, idiom sometimes has more than one meaning of that idiom. However some idioms are too difficult to guess accurately since they have no association which the original meaning of the words. Here are some examples:

1. After two years hiding, the robber breaks over and surrenders.
2. I come here to come clean and apologize to you
3. Common, stop teasing him. you have gone too far.

There are many problems that may appear when studying idioms. Based on the preliminary research, it was found that the learners do not know in which situation it is correctly to be used. People do not know the level of style of idioms. That is, whether an idiom can be used in the formal or informal situation they are usually construct a particular meaning. In other words, its meaning is not meaning, but it refers to the context.

Another example, the expressions of carrying to means to move. Most of the listeners or readers sometimes can not be able to predict that expressions of carrying to means move. Thus, the researcher is very interest in analysis study about idiom. To solves the problem the researcher consider that it is important to conduct the study of idiom then it will describe by analyzing the idiom.

Hopefully, this will be useful for readers who are interested in learning of idiom, and this related to the comics of Doraemon that quite famous from children to adults. The researcher concern with these comics to be analysis.

1. This subject is interesting for the researcher, because there are some idioms, find in the comics.
2. There are some difficulty found by the reader in reading the comic, because of the meaning is not obvious.
3. The researcher wants to know the forms and types of idiom which is used in the comic Doraemon.

B. Identification of The Problem

Based on the background of the study present above, the problem is identified as follow:

1. To find some idiom expression in the comic Doraemon.
2. To find the meaning of idiom expression in comic Doraemon.
3. To find the types and form of idiom expression in comic Doraemon.

C. The Scope of The Study

This study deals with the idiom, but only concentrate on analyzing types and forms of idiom expression in comic Doraemon. This study is limited on sentences and utterance which contain idiom expression.

D. Formulation of The Study

The problem of this study are formulating as follows:

1. What type of idioms expressions used in the comic Doraemon?
2. What form of idiom expressions used in comic Doraemon?

E. The Objectives of The Study

The objectives of the study are as follows:

1. To describe the types of idioms in comic Doraemon
2. To describe the form of idioms in comic Doraemon

F. The Significant of The Study

1. Theorically

Language contains many phrases whose meanings are most predictable on individual words. That phrase called idioms. Hurford (2007:328) Idiomatic expression are multi word phrases which that combines the literal senses of the individual words in each phrase.

2. Practically

a. The Readers

Idiom is more difficult to understand because its meaning is different from the literal meaning. Hopefully, this will be useful for the readers who are interested in learning idiom.

The finding of this research besides for the reader who is interested in learning idiom also is expected to enrich English teacher knowledge about the idiom especially types and form in idiomatic expression. So, idioms will be familiar to everyone and become their ordinary vocabulary.

b. The Students

The results of this research is hopefully useful for the students as the basic knowledge to learning idiom. Learn to used common idiom expression would make your English sounds more native. So it would become good idea to master some of these expression. And finally you need to familiarize yourself with the meaning of each idiom expression.

c. The Researcher

The researcher expect that this research can be alternative reference for other researcher to study about the characterization, values, and language styles. It should be clear that idioms are not as arbitrary as we used to think they were. And when we recognize the systems at work in a language, it becomes easier to understand, learn, and remember.

CHAPTER II

LITERATURE REVIEW

A. Theoretical Framework

1. Figurative Language

Language can be said as a means of communication in human life. Most of people need language as a tool of communication, interaction and getting information from the other people. In linguistic, the study about meaning is called semantic. Semantic is one of linguistic branches, which explain about language meaning, or it can be said that meaning the most important thing in studying semantic term. A part of semantic studies is literal and non literal meaning. Literal meaning is the opposite of non-literal meaning.

Abrams (1999:96) Figurative language was a conspicuous departure from what users of language apprehend as the standard meaning of words, or else the standard order of words, in order to achieve some special meaning or effect. Kennedy (1983:479) Figurative Language refers to words, and groups of words, that exaggerate or alter the usual meaning in figures of speeches of the component of words. Beckson and Ganz (1975:80) Figurative language is language which makes us of certain devices called figure of speech, most of which are techniques for comparing dissimilar objects to achieve effects beyond the range of literal language.

Figurative Language is language that uses words or expressions with a meaning that is different from the literal interpretation. Figurative language can be used in any form of communication, such as in daily conversation rarely, articles in newspaper, advertisements, novels, poems, etc. Figurative language uses some words that go beyond their ordinary meaning. It requires the readers to use his/her imagination to figure out the author's meaning.

It makes figurative meaning is difficult to understand because we cannot find the meaning of the figurative language in dictionary just like the other vocabulary words that we usually use in our daily conversation. To know about the meaning of figurative language we need to use our imagination to imagine what the words are said or what the words refer to.

1.1 Types of Figurative Language

Leech (1981:11) classified figurative language into seven types. The figurative language used for different purposes and understanding their strength help you to used each of them to their greatest possible effect. Figurative language would be explained which related to this study and it will be used in analyzing the findings. The seven types of figurative language are below:

a. Irony

Irony is word using that say something other than what we mean actually. Irony is one type of figurative language which declare the opposite meaning and contradiction with the fact. There is some argument about what qualities as ironic, but all senses of irony revolve around the perceived notion an incongruity between what is said and what is meant, or between an understanding or expectation of a reality and what actually happens.

For example:

1. He still feels lonely in the crowded city
2. In this prison we are happy, actually
3. The roasted chicken was as tender as a leather boot

b. Hyperbole

Hyperbole is expression of exaggeration which used by a writer depicted as being better or worse, or larger or smaller than actually the case. It is deliberate overstatement not intended to be taken literally. It is used as a means of emphasizing the truth of the statement. It tells more than the truth about the size, number, or degree of something without intending to deceive. It may be used to evoke strong feeling or to create a strong impression, but it is rarely meant to be taken literally.

For example:

1. He loves her for thousand years
2. He was so hungry, he ate that whole cornfield for lunch

c. Metaphor

Metaphor is a kind of figurative meaning which is an implicit comparison in which two unlike objects are compared by identifying or substituting one with other. Frost (2006:74) Metaphor is use of word or phrase denoting kind of idea or object in place of another word or phrase for the purpose of suggesting a likeness between the two. In other words, a resemblance of two contradictory or different objects is made based on a single or some common characteristic.

For example:

1. A view of a geode crystal is like the mind probing the universe
2. The stages of love are stepping stones to death
3. Kisses are roses in the spring
4. This world is a sea of anonymous faces

d. Metonymy

Metonymy is a figurative meaning in which the name of one object or idea is substituted for that of another closely associated with it. Metonymy is a change of name, the use of the one word for another, the use of an idea by means of terms involving association. Frost (2006:76) Metonymy is a figure of speech that uses a concept closely related to the thing actually meant. Metonymy is figure of speech consists of using the name one thing for something else with which associated.

For example:

1. I spent the night reading Shakespeare
2. Hollywood (The American film industry)
3. 10 Downing Street is located in London
4. The Pentagon is located in
5. The golden arches
6. The Silicon Valley

e. Litotes

Litotes is a figurative language in which, rather than making a certain statement directly, a speaker expresses it even more effectively, or achieve emphasis by denying its opposite. By its nature, litotes is a form of understatement, always deliberate and with the intention of subtitle emphasis. However, the interpretation of litotes can depend on context. Litotes therefore is an intentional use of understatement that renders an ironic effect.

For example:

1. This tea is not hot
2. It is not bad
3. I cannot disagree with your point of view
4. They do not seem the happiest couple around
5. She is not unlike her mother

f. Simile

Simile is a kind of figurative meaning comparing two essentially unlike things. Simile expresses a direct comparison between thing, which have one or more points in common and be recognized by the use of the word 'like' and 'as'. Frost (2006:79) Simile is figure of speech in which a comparison is expressed by the specific use of word or phrase such as : like, as, than, seems or as if.

For example:

1. Busy as a bee

2. They fight like dogs and cats
3. We ran as if to meet the star
4. He has learned gymnastics, and is as agile as a monkey

g. Personification

Personification consists of giving human characteristic to an object. Frost (2006:76) Personification is representation of inanimate objects or abstract ideas as living beings as in fact. Personification gives human characteristic to inanimate objects, animals, or ideas. This can really affect the way the reader imagine things. This is used in children's books, poetry, and fictional literature.

For example:

1. My teddy bear gives me a hug
2. The radio stopped singing and stared at me
3. The sky was full of dancing stars

1.2 The functional of Figurative Language

There are four main reasons of using figurative language (Perrine,1982:211). First, figurative language affords readers imaginative pleasure of literary works. Second, it is a way of bringing additional imagery into verse, making the abstract concrete ,making literary works more sensuous. The third, figurative is a way of adding emotional intensity to otherwise merely informative statements and conveying attitudes along with information. And the last, it is a way of saying much in brief compass.

The most desired role of figurative language is to convey the message to the reader in more impressive and lasting way. Appealing to the aesthetics is another function. When something is expressed through a figurative language the reader tend to remember it for longer and it also gives to the writer a precise expression.

2. Idiom

An important area grammar that does not fit into either morphology or syntax is idioms. Every language contains so many idioms, which not subject to logical analysis. But they so natural when someone uses them in their speech. Idioms are fixed expressions which meaning that usually not clear or obvious. Idioms are usually rather informal and include an element personal comment the situation too.

Idiom is figurative word that the words can be understood and translate literally, and often deviate from the general rule of the grammar. The translator should understand the meaning and the relation along with the context. Even though there are some idiom which commonly to be used).(Zuhridin Suryawijaya & Sugeng.2003).

Idioms are similar to others of non-literal language such as metaphor, which has multiple be a phrase with single accept figurative meaning and the syntax of the phrase be somewhat syntactically frozen. A metaphor is an expression which says something untrue statement is attributed to the topic.

In this idiom is made up of metaphors.

Examples:

1. I don't trust Jimmy with your secret; he is a snake in the grass snake in the grass means" a treacherous person."
2. Our neighbor give us a cock and bull story about our window was broken

Then, the relationship of idioms with methodical use part of the body. The meaning can illustrative by sentences:

1. You are busy, so you will need to keep an eye on the time, remember that we have to leave at 4.30.
keep an eye on means: check something regularly.
2. The car is pretty dirty, but it looks nice again with a little elbow grease elbow grease means "hard work, effort."

After using part of the body next is some examples of idioms with metaphorical using the colors. There are five colors which are used in an idiomatic expression; they are: green, white, red, blue and black.

These are examples of green:

1. Our city has the policy to increase the green belts around the city green belts; fields the trees around the town
2. She has green finger and can grow on of the best gardens in our neighborhood green finger: someone who has a talent for gardening

Examples of white:

1. Mother always buy many things with the white sale (white sale: the selling especially with a lower price)
2. The new airport is a white elephant, and nobody wants to use it (white elephant: useless possession)

Examples of red:

1. When I hear of cruelty to animals, it makes me see red (see red: violently angry)
2. The rich man often in the red with his business (in the red: losing money)

Examples of blue :

1. A thing like that only happens once in a blue moon (blue moon: very rarely)
2. The news was a great shock to me it came absolutely out of the blue (out of the blue: quite unexpectedly)

Examples of black:

1. He has a bad day, and suddenly the black out (blackout: unconscious fainted)
2. The big store was running in blackin (blackin : successful or profitable way)

2.1 Definition of Idiom

Idiom used to give life and richness to a language. People used idiom as a variation of language in their daily conversation. Cambridge International Dictionary of English states that an idiom is a group of the word in a fixed order having a particular meaning. Different from the literal meaning of each word understood on its own.

According to Seidl and Jenifer (1982:50) Idiom is an expression which it is composed. Hornby (1983:421) Idioms is a phrase or sentences whose meaning is not obvious to think knowledge of the individual meaning of constituent words, but must be learned a whole. Dixson (1971:12) Idiom is an expression which has a meaning different from that of the individual meaning on each of its parts. Brook (1983: 141) Idiom is a group of words, peculiar to one language which by usage is give meaning which cannot be deduced immediately from the separates word of which it is composed.

Based on the quotation above, it was cleared that idiom is an expression that cannot be understood from the literal meaning of the words they composed because they have a particular meaning that must be learned. Some idioms have a literal meaning, some have an idiomatic meaning, and others have various meaning depend on the text. An idiom which are self-explanatory and which learned as ordinary vocabulary call common idioms.

The words stand up, sit down, speak up, listen to, and look at, are several examples of idiom which as literal meaning. This idiom was easy to understand because they can define the words themselves and they can become ordinary vocabulary. Different from the common idiom, idiomatic is more difficult to understand because its meaning is entirely different from the literal meaning.

The words “look after” is an idiom which meaning is care, this idiomatic phrase is completely related to the literal meaning of the individual words look and after. Idiomatic expression was to be found in the daily speech on English people rather than in composition, like on the radio, novels, newspaper, and magazines articles. In learning English idiom, using English idioms correctly read much, note idiomatic peculiarities, commit idiomatic expression to.

Idioms are not only used in daily expressions, but it can use in a formal situation not only informal situations. The important in idiom is the meaning because that in idiom usually the corrected grammar is no problem. Form in grammar and the meaning. The idiom can distinguish by irregular form but have matched meaning with the ordinary words and irregular form but have matched meaning with the ordinary words and irregular form but the meaning was not matched with the ordinary words.

The example irregular form but have matched meaning with the ordinary words: I am a good friend with him, I have the desire to go to the theatre. Then the examples irregular form but the meaning is not matched with the ordinary words: to be at large. To keep a sharp eye on someone. To give some one the cold shoulder.

2.2 Idiomatic Expression

Idiomatic expressions are a phrasal verb, means that combining verb and preposition or to adverb to make a new verb of which meaning is often not obvious from the dictionary. Idiomatic expression is common phrase or saying whose meaning can not be understood by the individual words or elements.

Examples : My car is broke down means that stop working. It is very different from the individual word. Therefore, study the idiom an important part in English because so much country use idiomatic.

2.3 Form of Idiom

According to Hockett (1982,325) There are seven forms of Idiom, namely:

Idiomatic adjectives and noun phrases, Idiomatic common place comparison, Verb and noun which idiomatically go together, Idiomatic adjective phrase, Idiomatic prepositional phrase, Verb follow idiomatically by a preposition, and the last is Idiomatic verbal phrases having the verb to be.

a. Idiomatic Adjectives and noun Phrase

Several idiomatic phrases each consisting of a noun and an appropriated adjectives are to be find in current English. Many of them nevertheless are not explain even in good English dictionaries.

1. Blackmail is money extorted by threats or intimidation
2. A black sheep is metaphorically for one who has a bad reputation.

b. Idiomatic Common Place Comparison

Englishman in conversation often used the comparison to give flavor to their intercourse. The comparisons being expressed in short phrases.

1. Joe looks as white as a sheet. He must be very ill.(someone whose face is very pale because of illness, shock or fear).

2. Now that my Grandfather has stopped dying his hair, it's as white as snow (to be very white in color).
3. I was as sick as a dog last night (vomiting a lot, very ill)
4. He was as sick as a parrot when his team lost the match (bad feeling of frustration, very disappointed)

c. Verbs and Noun which idiomatically Go Together

The English language has many turns of expression in which from long usage certain nouns and verbs almost invariably go together.

1. It's good to hear someone finally talking sense on this issue (reasonable things)
2. You do talk rubbish sometimes, Jules (say stupid things)
3. I will start the ball rolling by introducing the first speaker (start discussion)
4. Don't forget to wrap up Dan's present before you go to the party (to wrap something)
5. What your previous caller said was a load of bull (talk nonsense)

d. Idiomatic Adjectives Phrases

English has many idiomatic expressions form of an important word and a preposition following it.

1. That first use of cocaine addicted me to it.(cause someone like a particular)
2. I was good at Math when Senior High School (inform someone that you competent at something)

3. My parents encouraged my interest in Science (you learn more about them)

e. Idiomatic Prepositional Phrases

Many expressions which the prepositional in the form being adverbial in meaning. Many delicate shades of meanings are expressed by prepositions.

For instance :

1. She was on the top of the world after her roses won first prize (very happy indeed)
2. She wore a dress instead of slacks (in substitution for)
3. Too many things are happening at the same time, and I'm confused (during the same moment)
4. By all means, come to our party if you end up being free on Saturday night (certainly)
5. I didn't know she could dance at all, let alone breakdance! (in any manner)

f. Verbs follow by preposition

Certain preposition when joining to verb, make the verb express greater completeness than if the simple verbs stand alone.

1. Get down is descend from higher position to a lower
2. Open up is to uncover
3. Clear up is to solve a problem
4. Far away is very distant
5. Drop in is to visit casually

g. Idiomatic Verbal Phrases having the verbs to be

Many prepositional and other phrases in English was used for the most part with the verb to be:

1. We are in a fix now because the hotel give our room hotel (be in difficulty)
2. Jeremy's been in more tight corner since he left college than I care to recount (be in a situation that is hard to get out)
3. The finances were in a muddle (be confuse)

2.4 Types of Idiom

According to Hockett (1982: 317) There are six type of idioms namely: Proper names, Figure of speech, Subtitutes, Abbreviation, English phrasal compound, and Slang.

a. Proper names

In all human communities, there was certain recurrent idiom creating events call naming. The grammatical properties of proper names may also deviate from those of the similar "ordinary words". In English, names of cities, as New York, Lake Michigan, have the article the permanently fix along side, as The Hague, The Mississippi (river), river name are apparently the entire later sort.

In the language, a noun like part of speech, the name almost invariable nouns, except that place names sometimes appear to be locative particles.

However, before the actual name giving, the linguistics from which is to be used may not have this status. The grammatical properties of proper names may also deviate from those of the most similar "ordinary" words.

Proper name is a symbol, which designates an entity of which there is only one, all human communities there is certain recurrent idiom creating events called "naming". There was various formally prescribed ceremonial in connection with naming.

b. Figure of speech

The figure of speech is expression or ideas to produce a greater effect (Corbett 1983: 97) elaborate the meaning of the figure of speech as the use of a word in a transferred sense. It departs from the common literal meaning of a word and gives the word another meaning. Students of rhetoric are dealing with idioms. For example: when someone says "he married a lemon", the morpheme lemon "sour-dispositioned women" is obviously a different idiom from the same morpheme meaning kind of fruit. "he still green" morpheme green meaning that he still young, it is not one of colors.

Figures of speech allowed speaker or writer to communicate meaning that differs in various ways from what utterance they say. People speak figuratively for the reason of politeness, etc. Then all of us, at one time or another ever heard or used such expression included in figures of speech such expression as "I am so hungry I could eat the horse" it means able to eat much.

c. Substitute

Anaphoric substitutes are almost by definition form, which turns up in each new idiomatic value. Substitute, in this type of idiom formation through not of the sort which can accumulate to change the grammatical pattern of language. For examples: he and she: have idiomatic uses in “she” for a woman, ship, moon, and for man, camel, and lion. In English, it is one time idiomatically a noun with meaning “sex or personal appeal”. It also a noun meaning that one of the groups who must chase the other.

d. Abbreviation

In English we also find rather pattern of abbreviation idiom formation, not assisted from many other languages, that replacing a long word or phrasal compound by its first, or stressed, syllable, whether or not that syllable have previously a morpheme. Thus researcher give the same abbreviation such as ‘cab’ from ‘cabriolet’. Genix” gentleman’. Some people still write with an apostrophe as a graphic indication of the abbreviation and even read as an idiom.

e. English Phrasal Compound

English phrasal compound has two type based on the reduction of stress; the first is reducing stress on the second immediate constituent. For the examples, the difference of meaning of a “white house“ is any house which is white and “the white house” is a white and house but also specifically the president residence. Usually, the phrasal compound is idiomatic. The second type is reduced stress on the prior member, for example; brown betty and best man. The ordinary pair place is not idiomatic, but this is not necessary, the cases as witness brown Betty a kind of dessert or best man of the wedding which means a bridegroom.

f. Slang

Slang is plentiful in English literature from the sixteenth century onwards. It is almost at home in the spoken language. And there can be little doubt that it was used in speech in earlier centuries. It is not certain whether slang is the universe or even widespread, but wherever it was found. Its idiomatic nature was clear with constant use. The special effect of a slang expression becomes dull as this happens, the expression is either.

While slang is usually spoken, it can appear in written literature. Because that was a way to develop the depth of a character. The example like She was mean mugging me, it means looking at me with a mean face or expression. Another example like photo bomb, it means like someone ruining the picture.

2.5 The Uses of Idiom

The uses of idioms based on the situation and the level of the style. Idiom involves the value culture, the grouping and using of idioms based on the purposes, the section for various purposes like giving spirit and showing time. Idioms used for the various purposes and in various events, the examples were shown below:

a. Giving spirit

The purpose is to make someone patient in facing the problems of life, the examples of idiom, which give spirits can be seen below:

1. To soften someone's heart means to persuade someone
2. With someone in spirit, means think about someone for his sympathy, encouragement.

b. Showing time

The idiomatic expressions below showed the time. Some examples were given below :

1. To be on time means at the arrangement or expect time
2. To take one's time means not hurriedly
3. To be in good time means to try to be quick
4. Every other day means one to two days
5. Time after time means time to time.

2.6 Comic

Mc Cloud (1993:20) Comic is juxtaposed pictorial and other images in deliberate sequence, intended to convey information and or to produce an aesthetic response from the viewer comics are just visual supplement by text. The idea was that comics to function as unify language, the words and the pictures function similarly. Since comics are sequential, they use very well to process, to explanation. An independent visual an illustration or photo can exist by itself to a single think.

Comics is a series of visual that can illustrate or explain a process. Some learned and understood better from words while others from images. Comics combined in unify language. Comics are similar to print cartoons, which shared some properties with photographs, as do animated cartoons with film, like in the researcher took the cartoons Doraemon in the comics as the source of data. Mc Cloud (1994, pp 12-13) as a type of cartoon it reads left to right, leading the viewer onwards as the story out of battle unfolds in chronological order.

The points out that although there were no distinct frames, changes of background and subject matter was used to create a coherent story. It's similar to comics that started read from left to right. The pictures from the comics is making the reader more interest to read that.

B. Previously Related Study

This research do not have related to other study, because this is the research in the comic of doraemon. But in another journal which I know describe about idiom expression. They are (Analysis Idiom in the movie 'The Godfather', Indrarizky S. Langi.2016), then (An Analysis of Idiomatic Expression in Novel 'Lock and Key'by Sarah Dessen, Khusnul Khotimah.2015), and (Analysis Idiomatic Expression found in Avril Lavigne's song Lyrics Album Let Go 2002,Tiany Daulay.2015). In every research of idiom expression, the researcher have different data. For this example, the study of idiom in the lyric of song or from the novel .In this research, the researcher use the comic for the study research.

C. Conceptual Framework

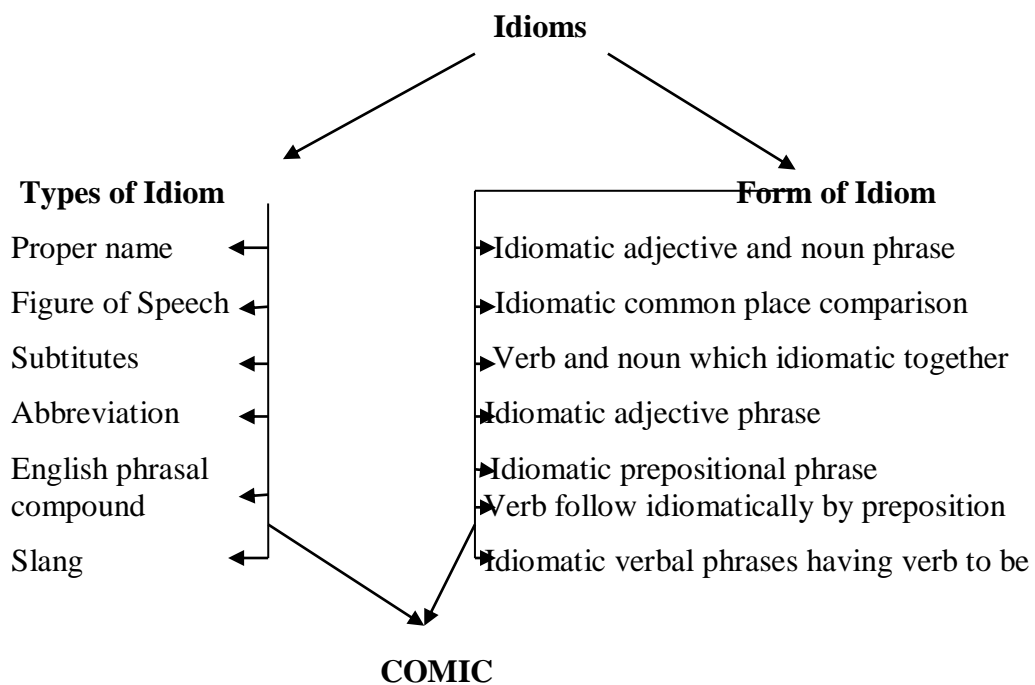

Education is a way to promote the standard of living. Through education, something can do with to reach the aim of education. There were some factors which considered. One factor, which can determine the successfulness of the learning is the learner, learner who is people born give potencies needs concise offered of language to their potencies and capacities.

However, they were not successful to gain the aimed of education if they have motivation. Therefore, literally and usages hand book provided all aspected in English sentences structure. Definition explanation and example always precede activities. The activities helped students to developed their skill in applying concepts to analyze the sentences especially to analyze idiom, which functions as state forms and types of idiom.

Some forms of idioms are Idiomatic Adjective and Noun Phrases, Idiomatic Common Place and Comparison, Verbs and Noun which Idiomatically Go Together, Idiomatic Adjective Phrase, Idiomatic Prepositional Phrase, Verb follow Idiomatically by Preposition and last is Idiomatic Verbal Phrases Having the Verb to be and Types of idioms are Proper names, Figure of speech, Substitutes, Abbreviation, English phrasal compound, and Slang.

Many book story and comics writer used idioms in presenting their creations. They use idioms as variation to make the comics more interesting for the readers. Sometimes idioms become a problem for the readers in understanding the point of the writer.

Idioms sometimes become something confusing for the readers who are using English as a second language because idioms have different meaning from the meaning. Many readers can not understand the message from the writer in the reading comics because of idiom. Therefore, it was very important to learn idiom in understanding the message in the story.

CHAPTER III

METHOD OF THE RESEARCH

A. Research Design

This study is using the descriptive qualitative design. Cohen, L (2007:475) writes about content analysis is the process of summarizing and reporting written data in the form of the main content of data and their messages. In this research, we will reading the story in the comic by every sentence to find out the idiom expression. The description of this study is to try the forms and the types of idioms in the comic Doraemon. The researcher is conducted, the data and reading some books that related to idioms and find the idiom in the comic of Doraemon.

B. Source of The Data

Data always need in every research. Data as referring to and representing phenomena which exist apart from the data and the setting in which the data were captured or generated (Ritchie and Lewis, 2003:202). The object of this research is taken from comic Doraemon vol.4 and 6. Vol.4 have 16 stories and vol. 6 have 18 stories so the total will be 34 stories. The data of the research is in the form of words. Then the unit of analysis is new utterances or sentences contained idiomatic expression. Both of them is used as the main data which to be analyzed.

C. Techniques for Collecting Data

In collecting the data, the researcher get the data by using some following step such as: reading the comic, understanding the meaning in the each sentences, then looking for the meaning for idiom and put the note and collect all the words of idiom in that comic. The researcher have the books of that comic, so the researcher put the copy of the comics as the attachment for this research.

And last is counting the percentage base on the process of verbal process by using formula as below :

$$p = p1/p2 \times 100\%$$

note:

P : result percentage

P1: the number of idioms

P2: the total of idioms

D. Technique for Analyzing Data

Based on Miles and Huberman (1984) analizing of data have 3 phase:

1. Data Reduction

Data reduction is summarizing data, coding, analysis during data collection, and data storage.

2. Data Display

Qualitative research is usually focused on words, actions that occur in certain contexts. Data display is directed so that the reduction data disorganized and arranged in a related pattern. So that it is easier to understand and plans for further research work. Miles and Huberman (1984) the most frequent form of display data for qualitative research data in the past has been narrative text. The most frequently used to display data in qualitative research is narrative text.

3. Drawing and Verifying Conclusion

The next step is drawing and verifying conclusion based on findings and verifying data. By confirming the meaning of each data obtained using one or more ways, researchers are expected to obtain information that can be used to support the achievement of research objectives.

Chapter IV

Data Analysis

A. Data collection

The data were collected from comic Doraemon gadget cat from the future volume 4 and 6 with the title how are you doing and I'm the Wolfman.

1. The dominant forms is verb follow idiomatically by preposition (66,6%)
2. The dominant types is slang (61,5%)

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Having analyzed the data, the conclusion are :

1. There are five forms of idiom expression used in comic Doraemon, there are idiomatic adjectives and noun phrase, verb and noun which idiomatically go together, idiomatic prepositional phrase, verb follow idiomatically by preposition, and idiomatic verbal phrases having the verb to be. The most dominant form is verb follow idiomatically by preposition in 66,6%, next followed by verbs and noun which idiomatically go together 19,5%, then idiomatic prepositional phrase 8%, idiomatic adjectives and noun phrase 3,4% and idiomatic verbal phrases having the verb to be 2,2%.
2. There are three types of idiom expression used in comic Doraemon, there are figure of speech, substitute, and slang. The most dominant types is slang with 61,5%, then figure of speech 30,7%, and substitute 7,6%.

B. Suggestion

The suggestion of this research are put forward as follows:

1. For the teacher they should familiarize their students with idiomatic expression comprehensively.

2. For the students, they should learn idiomatic expression to know the meaning or the idea of the sentences clearly.
3. Other researcher can conduct research with detail analysis related to Idiomatic Expression, because it can be used to help students to their subject study.
4. For the readers, this study can help them to learn about idiomatic expression as one of idiomatic expression resources.
