CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. The Background of the Study

Figurative languages are words and expressions used in poems, prose, poetry and texts to convey various meanings and interpretations from the literal meaning. Figurative language often to describe something by comparing it to something else. Dancygier and Swetser (2014) state that figurative usages clearly do not serve, the same purposes as their literal translation, because of this, many students still confuse about the form or the types of figurative language as satire especially students of English Education Program at University of Muhammadiyah Sumatera Utara. Satire is something that is quite odd amongst students in general, especially in social media, and television. Satire is conveyed in a bold manner, making students do not realize that the satire it self has already been said. It is delivered in an implicit way, smooth, and more of a comedy. Most students have this tendency of being oblivious towards something or even not that focus upon something has been said, and thus satire is hardly understood. students who can easily detect satire are those who have a high sensitivity level as well as focus upon what has been delivered verbally.

Satire is figurative language to reveal the situation or students' behavior which is used as reinforcement to convey a message and it is also an utterance which is used parody, irony and humor to criticize and laugh at the situation or students' behavior. From the explanation above, satire has criteria to include in figurative language. As we know, figurative language are an utilization of wealth of language to make certain effects. So that a literary work are more alive. Figurative language make students interest to read or listen a literary work and figurative language has typical way to convey thoughts and feelings.

Satire is mostly used due to the belief that it can raise the rating of a program. The headline of a program or media that uses satire will add to the curiosity in audiences, resulting in the increasing of their interest to watch or read it, thus making the amount of fans higher, and that is such a beneficial to the program or media itself. The subtlety of the sentences added with the comedic puchline make satire used more often to entertain the audiences, as well as awaking students to realize something when thinking of what could possibly the satire's conveyer mean. Satire can be implemented in talkshows, reading media, daily lives, poetries, rhymes, social media, books, and even teaching materials.

Satire has a message which can improve the situation or students' behavior into better. Satire is a genre of literature that vices, follies, abuses and weakness are held up to ridicule. Ideally with intent of shaming individuals, corporations, government and society itself into improvement by using humor. According to british comedian, Steel (2009) states that the power of satire to stir audiences who are hungry for meaning. Swift (2016) states that satire refers to a genre literature which is often used by literary people as a smart weapon to expose cluster of ideas and people's behavior into improvement. From the explanation above, it can be concluded that satire is one of the ways to ridicule people through humor because their vices, follies, abuses and weakness but the aim is to expect the improvement of situation and people's behavior into better.

Nowadays, satire can be found in many artistic forms of expression, literature, commentary, cartoon, media such as lyric, comic and television show. Television as media communication has a big role in sharing information and entertainment. This research analyzes satire in television show. Entertainment in television is done in various ways. One of them use comedy in the television program to entertain people. Comedy is quite easy to understand in literary term that uses some character types in a scenario where some kinds of problem must be resolved. Gourevitch(1994) states that there are many impulses for the formation of comedy such as farce, humor, satire and irony. Comedy can be done in traditional categories such as pantomime, farce, satire. In modern categories, comedy can be done through cartoons, stand up comedy, some game shows and caricature.

Sani (2012) states that satire as refers to the use of ridicule, sarcasm or irony to criticize something or someone to expose weakness or shortcomings. Humor, parody and irony are important to express satire. Satire relies on humor to bring about social change. When our vices are made humorous, the idea is that it will encourage us to change. Irony in satire is exaggerated. From the exaggeration, it make people aware for their foolishness. Irony is the use of words to convey something that use opposite of the literal meaning of the world and parody imitates the characteristic style of an author or speaker for comic effect or ridicule. Satire has two moods. The first is gentle or sympathetic, where the humor is mild and the speaker sees the problem as more foolish than evil. The second is biting or angry, where the ridicule is savage and the speaker sees the problem as urgent and severe, possibly evil.

Satire has been called as the oldest term of social commentary. For students, the injustices and problems in their environment are too big to confront directly. So, one of the approaches by using humor. Satire also gets attention from students when there are social issues which usually ignore by them. Unfortunately, students are so difficult to distinguish between indignity with satire. Satire has the aim so usually in satire has a hidden moral message. Satire forces reader or listener to takes conclusion of moral message through satire itself because the aim of satire is to convey a message then it is important for satire to has the significant points. In order to satire can reach its target, there are several things which should be understood. Satire is less successful to reach its target if used by less smart students or people, the society that have less insight and the students are not open minded.

Some people assume that satire only has the nature of destroying something. Generally, the object is attacked by satire has embedded neatly in our brain and it is considered as the truth but satire also has the nature of corrective. The primary nature of satire is total correction for something that is consider of the truth. Sometimes, students are difficult to get the message from satire because students must know the background of something that is satirized and that is not easy. The combination between knowledge of the problem, understanding of the meaning, laughing and satire. That matters are one of the satirical style. Generally, satirical style most often used on society that have the quiet high level of intelligence because it can make satire becomes the measure of country's progress and student's intelligence to understand the meaning. Satire is required when the target of satire is an open mind on the other thought. The student that are not open mind, they just look the different meaning of satire, it can be indignity or harassment.

B. The Identification of the Problems

1. Figurative Language

Figurative language is the use of words that go beyond their ordinary meaning. It requires using the imagination to figure out the poet's meaning. When a researcher uses literal language, he or she is simply stating the facts as they are. Figurative language, in comparison, uses exaggerations or alterations words. The usage of figurative language is useful because it may help someone understand something that they would not have if it was said in a different way. It also shortens up what people can say but have the same meaning. Based on Ducrot and Todorov (2013) figurative language as a choice among the other alternatives in using language. It refers to the way to convey the same information by using different expression and related to different variations of language that are used in different situation and needs. Meanwhile, Keraf (2009) states that figurative language is a way of expressing typically thought through language that shows the spirit and personality of the author or the user language. Based on several observations according to the experts above, it can be concluded that figurative language is the typical way an author or writer in expressing thoughts and feelings in writing or orally. The specificity of figurative language in the choice of words an author who is able to touch the minds and feelings of the reader or listener. It is one of the choice in using language and It has the same meaning but using different expression.

2. Satire

Satire is a form of humor and considered as the cruelest form of comedy. It is also the way of criticize a person, an idea or an institution in which used humor to show faults or weaknesses. Satire can be used to ridicule a person, a group of people or students. The hope is that by pointing out the foolishness of the person, group, or society into better. The aim is not only to entertain but also to inform or make people think.

According to Abrahams (2013) states that satire can be describe as the literary art that mocking a subject by making it ridiculous and evoking toward attitude of entertainment, insult, ridicule or anger. Satire uses laughter as a weapon.

In conclusion satire is one of figurative language used critique or something to get the improve ethically and aesthically.

Holman (1985) states that satire is a literary manner which blends a critical attitude with humor and wit to the end that human institutions or humanity may be improved. The motion pictures, the plastic and graphic arts and the newspaper comic strip and political cartoon have all been instruments of telling, satiric comment on human affairs.

According to Simpson (2003) states that satire is the best term of humor, which if done successfully, it will fulfill the function of humor. Satire is as much common part of everyday spoken and written interaction as ant of the other easily recognizable humor practice.

3. Characteristics of Satire

According to Hodgart (2009), defines the characteristics of satire as follows:

1. Critique. Satire is always a critique of some form of human behavior, vice, or folly, with the intent of persuading the audience to view it disdainfully and thereby encourage a degree of social change.
2. Irony. Satire uses irony, often in a humorous way, to point out the problems with the behavior being critiqued.
3. Implicitness. Satire is not an overt statement, and it does not come to an explicit

4. Types of Satire

According to Abrams (2012), there are two types of satire. The first type is formal satire, in formal satire the satiric persona speaks out directly used “I” to the listener or the other character of the work. The second type is indirect satire, in indirect satire the casts is in some other literally form than that of direct address to the reader.

4.1 Formal satire

Formal satire has two types:

a. Horation Satire

In Horation Satire the speaker manifests the character of an urbane, witty, and tolerant man of the world, who is moved more often to wry amusement than to indignation at the spectacle of human folly, pretentious from readers a wry smile at human failings and absurdities, sometimes including his own. Horace himself described his aim as “to laugh people out of their vices and follies.”

Day and Keegan (2009) state that horation satire being associated with a gentler tone.

For instance:

“To become a governor should has God heart, because should be busy to keep feelings of the society, because they have different social level so when this one was evicted, this one is noisy, this one was helped first, this one feel offended.”

In this sentence the speaker satirized how the societies have many wants and each of them wants to be the priority. It makes the leader confused which one is priority.

b. Juvenalian Satire

In Juvenalian Satire the character of the speakers is that of a serious moralist who uses a dignified and public style of utterance to decry modes of vice and error which are no less dangerous because they are ridiculous, and who undertakes to evoke from readers contempt, moral indignation, or an unilluminated sadness at the aberrations of humanity.

Day and Keegan (2009) state juvenalian satire is rougher, more aggressive one.

For instance:

“Planning spatial and regional governance should not inconsistent, must obey to law not to money.”

In this sentence the speaker satirized how some people prefer to choose money even it is break the rule rather than obey the law.

4.2 Manipean satire

One type of indirect satire is Manipean Satire. Manipean Satire criticizes mental attitudes rather than societal norms or specific individuals. This type of satire often ridicules single-minded people, such as bigots, misers, braggarts, and so on.

Day and Keegan (2009) state that manipean satire usually does not have characters but more commonly mental attitudes to deal with.

For instance:

“Brain and muscle should sync to be healthy physically.”

In this sentence the speaker satirized people to be balance intellectually

5. The Function of Satire

The aggressive function, always ridicules or makes fun of a victim.

The social function, it can serve to reinforce intra and inter group bonds, strengthening the cohesiveness of interpersonal relations.

The intellectual function, which is based on word play and nonsense, provide pleasure in the temporary freedom from strict rules and relationality.

6. How Satire Attacks its Target

Satire attacks its target through double object. A double object is the target of satirical criticism and ties the external object of criticism. There are two halves to a double object. A double object involve the intentional object, which is the target of attack purely within the work. The external to the work is the model, which is both the ultimate target of attack and the basis of the intentional object. Anything may be used as a model: individual person, political systems or just clusters of ideas. the intentional object cannot simply be the model accurately and completely inserted into fiction, as that would reduce the work to invective.

7. Talk Show

Talk show is a television programming genre in which one person or group of people discusses various topics put forth by a talk show host. Usually, guests consist of a group of people who are learned or who have great experience in relation to whatever issue is being discussed on the show for that episode. Other times, a single guest discusses their work or area of expertise with a host or co-host.

Generally, each sub-genre predominates during a specific programming block during the broadcast day. There are several major formats of talk shows. Which the following major format:

- a. Breakfast chat or early morning shows that generally alternate between news summaries, political coverage, feature stories, celebrity interviews, and musical performances.
- b. Late morning chat shows that feature two or more hosts or a celebrity panel, and focus on entertainment and lifestyle features.
- c. Late-night talk shows that feature celebrity guests who talk about their work and personal lives as well as their latest films, tv shows, music recordings, or other projects they had like to promote to the public. The hosts are often comedians who open the shows with comedy monologues.
- d. Lifestyle or self-help programs, which generally feature a host or hosts who are medical practitioners, therapists, or counselors, describe medical or psychological problems, or offer advice.

- e. Daytime talk shows, generally featuring a host, a guest or a panel of guests, and a live audience that interacts extensively with the host and guests. These shows may feature celebrities, political commentators, or ordinary people who present unusual or controversial topics.

B. Relevant Studies

There some studies that related to this research had been conducted before. The first study is study is Gymah (2013) in the research “Soyinka as satirist: A study of The Trials of Brother Jero”. In the research, Gymah examined Soyinka as a satirist with reference to his play. The Trials of Brother Jero.Gymah concluded that if Soyinka effectively indulges in his criticism and successfully sends him message across as satirist, it is because, in addition to other things, Soyinka is able to handle irony, exaggeration, and invective so well that he can sustain audience interest though out the play while urging correction.

The second study isPahrn (2014) in the research “Meme Culture and Humor-Satire Politic”. This study highlights political meme photos, slides with text since it offers both explicit message and a form of criticism.

The third study is conducted in the thesis “Satire of the World War II Reflected in AD Poem by Kenneth Flexner Fearing” by Kusdiati (2016). The researcher analyzed a poem entitled Ad by Kenneth Flexner Fearing, this poem tells about world war II that contents satire. The researcher used the satire in this poem because it can change or improve people’s behavior into better quality and analyzed satire in instrinsic element of Ad such as satire in the diction, symbol and imagery. The researcher also analyzed satire in the extrinsic element and condition of society in the poem through the sociology approach.

The fourth is conducted in the thesis “Feminism and Political Satire: Excavation through Humor” by Emily Ward (2016). Emily said, satire is the most complicated form of comedy; it requires an audience to understand satire and to know enough context to appreciate the message. According to the researcher, critical thought is where feminism and satire can meet. These two do not resemble each other much in content or history but rather in the skill that they call upon.

The last study is Setiawan (2017) in the research “Humor and Satire in Mark Twain’s the Adventures of Tom Sawyer” Researcher analyze the implied humor and satire. Formulation the problem of this research is what forms of humor are implied and what forms of satire are reflected in the novel The Adventures of Tom Sawyer. The depiction of satire is shown by ridicule from the habits of church service, process education for children, ignorance and cruelty of teachers in small cities and criticism of racial discrimination.

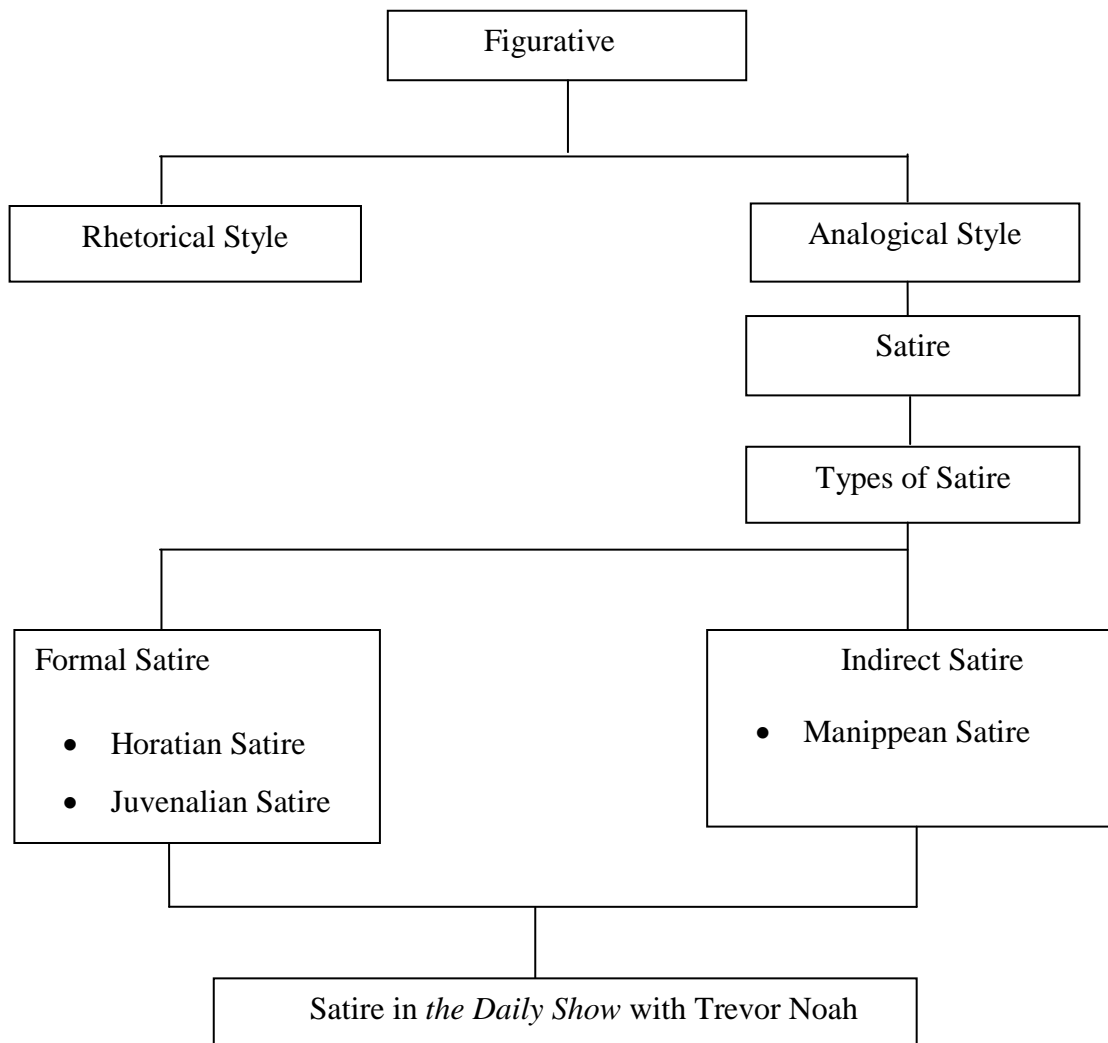

From the previous related studies above, we obtained the difference which is presented by this research. The difference between this research and previous studies is from the object of the research. In the previous studies analyzed satire of the Soyinka as Satirist: A Study of The Trials of Brother Jero by Gymah (2013), Meme Culture and Humor-Satire Politic by Pahrin (2014), Feminism and Political Satire: Excavation through Humor by Emily (2016), the World War II Reflected in AD Poem by Kenneth Flexner Fearing by Kusdiati (2016), and humor and satire by Setiawan (2017). While, this research take the Daily Show with Trevor Noah, which applied satire as the object of research. The findings of this studies show that there are message in satire because satire can improve the cluster of idea or people's behavior into better. The contribution of previous studies for the researcher is help the researcher for easier to analyze satire.

C. Conceptual Framework

Figurative language is the typical way an author or writer in expressing thoughts and feelings in writing or orally. The specificity of figurative language in the choice of words an author who is able to touch the minds and feelings of the reader or listener. People can use figurative language to make their work more interesting or more dramatic. The usage of figurative language is useful because it may help someone understand something that they would not have if it was said in a different way. It also shortens up what people can say but have the same meaning.

Satire is one of figurative language and happen when an author or speaker used satire to ridicule a person, a group of people, or society through humor. The hope is that by pointing out the foolishness of the person, group, or society, that a situation might improve.

D. The Techniques for Analyzing the Data

After downloading the data from internet, the data was analyzed through Miles & Huberman (2014) that involved: data condensation, data display and conclusion. Based on the following theory, the research applied the following steps:

1. Data condensation

The first step of data analysis was data condensation. It was referred to the process of selecting, focusing and simplifying. In this first stage, Reducing the data it was meant summarizing, choosing the main thing, focusing on the important things. The researcher got the data from analysis documentary about satire in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah. In this step, the researcher was focused on satire.

2. Data display

The second step of analysis activity was data display. It was process of displaying data in the form of table to analyze the data so that more to understanding. Looking at the displays helped us to understand what was happened and to do something either analyzed further or took action based on that understanding.

3. Verifying Conclusions

The researcher was classifying the data with the same code and merge the categories and found the kind among the categories. Then, it continued to give the explanation. Finally, the researcher got the result and conclusion of the research.

CHAPTER IV

DATA AND DATA ANALYSIS

A. Data Collection

The data were collected and selected from the utterances of Trevor Noah in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah. There are 7 episodes in all, they are: Trump and Hannity Hang & Bloomberg Fights Boxgate, Trump Acquitted in Impeachment Trial & SOTU Fallout, Biden Wins South Carolina & Buttgieg and Klobuchar Drop Out, Coronavirus Hits America – Is This How We Die?, Trump’s “New Tone” On Coronavirus, Trump Is Totally Fine with Being Impeached, Trump’s Senate Impeachment Trial- Day Three. There were 63 data found in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah and those were analyzed based on types of satire with the theory presented by M.H. Abrams. The utterances were presented in appendix 2. Three types of satire were analyzed in this research included horation satire, juvenalian satire and manippean satire.

B. Data Analysis

After identifying the data, the types of satire in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah were classified based on types of satire by Abrams (2012). There are three types of satire, namely: horation satire, juvenalian satire, manippean satire.

1. Horation Satire

In horation satire, the speaker criticizes some social vices through gentle, mild and light-hearted humor. Horation satire is the gentlest satire and more often wry amusement than to anger. The following examples were taken from the utterances in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah .

Data 1:

That has to be one of the most gangster arguments I've ever heard a senator give. "No more witnesses because I already know what trump did, okay?" (1.a)

This utterance aimed to satirized trump that everyone has already know what he had done wrong, so there will no longer necessary for any witnesses to present, everything is so clear, the answer is already there.

Data 2:

And with impeachment no longer weighing him down, Trump had the opportunity to spend time with his loved ones. Well, on Sunday, Hannity sat down with Trump for an exclusive pre-Super Bowl interview. (1.b)

This utterance shows that Trump doesn't seem weighed on his impeachment, to the point that he can even come to a sporting event.

Data 3:

How good Trump is at playing with the media.!" (1.h)

This utterance shows that Trump is really good at fooling the media, making the non-existent become existent, and vice-versa.

Data 4:

Everyone knew where this was going. This-this was like a movie where you can guess what was gonna happen without even watching it, you know? (1.j)

This utterance shows that People actually know the timeline of the impeachment case happening in America, it depends on how they decide. Whether or not they are ready to trial against Trump.

2. Juvenalian Satire

Juvenalian satire is quiet bitter and angry, biting harshly at the situation and the people that speaker finds corrupt or unacceptable. The following examples were taken from the utterances in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah.

Data 5:

Although for Michael Bloomberg, every blow is a low blow, You know? Yeah, when he drops the mike, it doesn't fall that far. (2.a)

In this utterance even though Bloomberg is rich, he doesn't really have any power in political environment

Data 6:

And then in the year 2020, the president called Bloomberg a tiny little-box elf Then Bloomberg responded, 'Oh, yeah?' "Nice to pay you, fat (censored)” And yes that’s gonna be on the quiz this Friday, everybody. (2.b)

This utterance show that the history of politic in the year 2020 is full of useless thing, it’s all about a president mocking partners.

Data 7:

You know what, sometimes I’ll be honest with you, I feel like sometimes the news in America is so full of shit. Right? (2.c)

This utterance show that nowadays, news in America are full of lies.

Data 8:

The haters said you were as radical as a glass of skim milk, but they were wrong, Mitt. You're whole milk, my man.(1.e)

In the utterance people thought Mitt will be a good politician, but they were wrong.

3. Manippean Satire

In this type, manippean satire criticizes mental attitude rather than societal norms or specific individuals. This type often attacks single-minded people such as bigots, misers, braggarts and so on. The following examples were taken from the utterances in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah.

Data 9:

Look, man, it was bad, but not kick-the-guy-out bad. Yeah, Republicans basically treat Trump like white people treat their dogs. (3.a)

In this utterance the Republicans think that Trump is always right even though it's so clear that he is in the wrong, as if a bad puppy but still well taken care of.

Data 10:

they make it sound like they're upset about what Trump said, and that they're 'fact-checking it.' But all they really want to do is repeat his insults all day. Yeah. 'Cause it's great for ratings. (3.b)

This utterance aimed for the media are making news about Donald Trump, not because it's important, but for rating only

Data 11:

When Nancy Pelosi tore up a copy of Trump's speech, she wasn't just ripping up a speech. She was ripping up the memory of the people in that speech. Those people are gone now. (3.d)

This utterance show that Nancy can manipulate people's thoughts by transferring issues.

Data 12:

black people are the only people who are really prepared for this, you know? Everyone else is, like, shaking hands with you, but black people, like, we have many different ways to greet each other, you know? (3.d)

This utterance how that the lifestyle of black people won't give them a hard time amidst the pandemic because it's so different to that of white people.

Based on the analysis, the researcher found how Trevor Noah used satire in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah.. Trevor Noah used satire in many ways. From used irony, parody, comparison and humorto criticize and satirize on something.

C. Discussion

In this research was found all types of satire in the Daily Show with Trevor Noah. They were three types of satire. The research data were relevant with the theory conveyed by M.H. Abrams that there are horation satire, juvenalian satire and manippean satire. So in the adjustment of types contained in satire associated with the way to convey the utterance. For Biden, he's made the ultimate comeback, your opponents aren't just dropping out, they're also endorsing you. o. It doesn't matter how well it goes, if you call the person the wrong name at the end, - the whole thing is ruined. p. Messing up a famous quote from American history, like, it's a little worse, it's a little worse than some reporter, you know? People notice. That's one small step for man, one medium coffee, no sugar. q. Coronavirus has been making its way through Europe like a trust fund kid on a gap year. And after throwing Italy into chaos, the next stop on the trip is Paris. r. Why isn't America doing this? Right? This is the land of the drive-through. Yeah. Drive-through fast food, drive-through banks, drive-through liquor stores. I mean, when I'm in a rush, I go to a drive-through therapist. You know? It's just like, "Stop being sad." "Thank you. Goodbye!" s. It's the perfect day to reveal a secret you've been keeping, and if the person you tell reacts badly, you can just pass it off as a prank. t. 		q. Trump is the one person who won't know when Joe has messed up. r. That's, like, such an ingrained part of their culture. You know, it's like telling New Yorkers not to jack off on the subway. That's how we say hello. s. It's like at the end of a sports movie where the coach is like, "Guys, what you've been looking for "has been right here all along. "See, the virus is in your lungs. "You shouldn't be playing basketball. You should be at the hospital." t. Husbands and wives need to come together to fight the true enemy: their kids. Don't let those cute faces fool you. They'll shit right on your lap and laugh while doing it. u. Cause, I mean, this guy takes nothing seriously. This is the same dude who stared at an eclipse like it was a Magic Eye painting. The same dude who sang "HakunaMatata" when he assassinated a general in Iran. The same dude who responded to a hurricane with a paper towel threepoint contest. So this is a side of Donald Trump we don't often get. I haven't seen Trump this somber since Maury told him that he was Eric's father. v. Next time America wants to invade Iraq, they should just throw a Frisbee by Trump's head and that'll distract him for a month. x. And I hope he is taking it seriously, because-- let's be real-- this is still Donald Trump, people. All right? I wouldn't be shocked if he acted like this, and then tomorrow he comes out, like, "April fools! "I'll see you losers on Easter. Did you see me? I acted sad." y. Okay, first of all, "impeachment lite"? There's no impeachment lite, okay? Impeachment is like herpes. You either have it or you don't. "Oh, don't worry, baby. This is just some diet herpes right here." z. Okay, this is not a good look, people. Senators are just leaving the room and then doing their own thing in the middle of an impeachment trial? You can't just walk away. This isn't a conversation with Ted Cruz. aa. The world is gonna be flooded, and Trump is like, (Imitating Trump) "Wait, wait, poison the water first. I want to make this the best apocalypse of all time."	2.w 2.x 2.y 2.z 2.aa	for those who already get use to see deaths. This utterance show that Trump as a president is being easy to be distracted, just like a puppy. For example if there is an urgent situation in the country, but due to a trivil matter, Trump will have his attention distracted to that small problem. In this utterance Trump really does seem to be serious in responding this pandemic, but we won't be surprised if at any moment he suddenly doesn't care about this pandemic. This utterance show that Trump doesn't take this impeachment case seriously, when there is nothing light on this kind of case. This utterance show that the senators act like they don't care toward Trump's impeachment case, when they're actually the arbiter in the court. This utterance show that even if a certain problem arises, Trump will look for a way to make it bigger.

Title : Impeachment Nears Its End, Trump and Hannity
Hang & Bloomberg Fights Boxgate | The Daily Show

Release Date : Feb 3rd, 2020

Satires:

Trevor: “This weekend was a big one for President Trump and not just because the chef at Mar-a-Lago made boob-shaped burgers, no. It was big because Republican senators stopped witnesses from testifying at Trump’s Impeachment trial, and it wasn’t for the reason that you might think.”

CNN Host: “This weekend more Senate Republicans admitted that president’s actions were wrong and bad, but they insist not impeachable.”

Lamar Alexander: “Well, I mean, if you have eight witnesses who say someone left the scene of an accident, why do you need nine? I mean, the question for me was, “Do I need more evidence to conclude that the president did what he did?” and I concluded “No”.”

Trevor: “That has to be one of the most gangster arguments I’ve ever heard a senator give. (Imitating Lamar) “No more witnesses because I already know what trump did, okay?” Yeah, that would be like if a cop pulled you over and asked, (Imitating a cop) “Sir, do you know how fast you were going?” You’re like (Slurring) “Yeah, I have a speedometer.” –Laughter from audience--- “Now are we done here, cause I got to get to the party before this buzz wears off.” –Laughter continues—But yes, after months... after months of claiming Trump did nothing wrong, many key Republicans have now settled on: Look, man, it was bad, but not kick-the-guy-out bad. Yeah, Republicans basically treat Trump like white people treat their dogs. You know? Sure it tore up all the furniture, pooped on the floor and bit the neighbor’s kid, but (Imitating baby talk) who can stay mad at that face? –Laughter—who can stay mad at that face? He just wanted a quid pro quo, he wants a quid pro quo, who wants a quid pro quo? –Cheering applause—you want a quid pro quo. So without witnesses, the trial is scheduled to wrap up on Wednesday, and this will probably be the end of the impeachment trial of Donald Jazeera Trump. And with impeachment no longer weighing him down, Trump had the opportunity to spend time with his loved ones. Specifically, Sean Hannity, Fox news host and guy who definitely names his guns. Well, on Sunday, Hannity sat down with Trump for an exclusive pre-Super Bowl interview, where he asked the president all the hard-hitting question Sean Hannity: “I love sports, I think sports mirror life, you know stripped down, you learn to win, sometimes you don’t always win—What do you love about sports?”

Trump: “Well, it is, it’s sort of a little bit of microcosm of life. You know, you have winners, you have champions. You have people that you expect to see that final play. You have great coaches, like Belichick. Uh, you have people that you expect... more out of, and often times they produce. Then you have people that you just don’t expect they’re gonna do it and often times they don’t. It’s a microcosm of life.

Trevor: (Laughing) “There are people that you don’t expect things from and they don’t deliver –Laughter—and also, did, did Trump just rephrase what Hannity just said to him and make it sounded like it was his own idea? Cause Hannity goes, (Imitating Hannity) “I think sports mirrors life”, and Trump is like (Imitating Trump) “Actually, for me, I think sports mirrors life.” –Laughter— “But, hey that’s just my opinion, I don’t know.” I will say though, I was impressed that Trump used the word “Microcosm” yeah, and correctly too. Yeah, because if he ever used that word, I would have expected something more like,

(Imitating Trump) “The Playboy Mansion, 1986, I had the most intense microcosm of my life.” –Laughter—
“So good, so strong.” –Laughter with applause—But, but Trump didn’t spend the whole conversation sharing his deep, meaningful thoughts, about sports. No, he also shared quick, shallow thoughts about the Democratic Candidates.”

Hannity: “A lightning round here, um, I’m just gonna throw out a name, whatever come to your mind, we’ll start with Joe Biden.”

Trump: “I just think of sleepy, I-I just watch him, he’s a sleepy, Sleepy Joe.”

Hannity : “Bernie Sanders”

Trump : “Well, I think he’s a communist, I mean you know look, I think of communism when I think of Bernie. Now, you could say socialist, but didn’t he get married in Moscow?”

Hannity : “Michael Bloomberg”

Trump: “Uh, very little. I just think of little. You know, now he wants a box for the debates, to stand on. Okay, it’s okay. There’s nothing wrong. You can be short. Why he should get a box to stand on, okay? He wants a box for the debates.

Trevor: “ –Laughter—He wants a box? I know you might be wondering: “What is Trump talking about?” The answer is: “No one knows.” –Laughter—Is it true? Did Trump make this up? Did somebody put magic mushrooms on Trump’s boob burger? We don't know. He could have imagined all of this while he was tripping. One thing is for sure: "Trump has put Bloomberg in an awkward situation

Trevor: "This is the genius of Donald Trump, I don't care what anyone says. Because some candidates do use boxes. But now, if Bloomberg asks for a box, it's gonna be a huge deal. So he's gonna have to figure out another solution at the debate. Like, maybe Bloomberg can convince the DNC to give the debates a '70s theme so he can show up in his platforms. –Laughter—Maybe that would work. Now, Bloomberg could have chosen to respond in a number of ways. He could have stayed with a height theme and said, (Imitating Bloomberg) "Screw the box I'm gonna stand on my bank statements that show how much richer I am than you." But, instead, instead, the Bloomberg campaign tried to hit Trump where it hurts

TODAYNEWS Host: "Bloomberg's campaign firing back, calling the president a pathological liar that lies about everything, his fake hair, his obesity, and his spray-on-tan." –Shouting, cheering, applause--

Trevor

: "His fake hair, his obesity, and his spray-on-tan. Goddamn, what a low blow! Although for Michael Bloomberg, every blow is a low blow, but –Audience groaning--- You know? Yeah, when he drops the mike, it doesn't fall that far. It's crazy, though. That this is what politics looks like right now. Although you have to admit, it'll make history class a lot less boring down the road. All right? Teachers in the future will be like: (Imitating a teacher) “And the in the year 2020, the president called Bloomberg ‘a tiny little-box elf’ Then Bloomberg responded, ‘Oh, yeah?’ “Nice to pay you, fat (censored)” And yes that’s gonna be on the quiz this Friday, everybody.” –Laughter—But... wherever Trump’s Bloomberg story came from, it shows you how good Trump is at playing with the media. Because now, a story that Trump completely made up has gotten so big, it’s all the news wants to talk about.”

FOXNEWS Host : “We have looked into this so called Box-gate situation, and we have not been able to find any proof that Michael Bloomberg wants a box.”

CNN Host : “He also suggested some sort of conspiracy theory that Bloomberg was working with the DNC to be able to stand on a box during the debate. We have no evidence that that is true.

FOXNEWS Host : “I don’t mean to get in the weeds on this, Kevin. Did he ask for a box or not? Is that true or not? He... he did not ask for a box.”

CNN Host : “Despite Trump’s claim there is no evidence that Bloomberg is asking to stand on a box. And there’s nothing wrong with standing on boxes.”

Trevor : “Man, you know, you know what, sometimes- I’ll be honest with you, I feel like sometimes the news in America is so full of shit. Right? No, because they make it sound like they’re upset about what Trump said, and that they’re ‘fact-checking it.’ But all they really want to do is repeat his insults all day. Yeah. ‘Cause it’s great for ratings. It really is. I mean boxes? You know what they remind me of, they remind me of that kid in school that acted like your friend while being a jerk to you .You know, the kid would come up and be like (Imitating a kid) “Hey, I heard Brian say ‘that your mama so dumb she needs a lifeguard when she takes a bath. But that’s not true, right? He’s so mean. Brian’s mean. I would never say that. I didn’t repeat it to everybody else.” And here’s why this is so disappointing for me. After the 2016 election, cable news in particular said they realize they made a mistake by amplifying everything Trump said.

They said that, right? Which only helped him. We know that it helped him. And so they said we won't do it again, but now with the election around the corner and they can't resist that sweet Trump juice. Back at it. “Oh, is Bloomberg too short to stand (Muttering) Debate (Muttering)” And one thing for sure. When Trump says shit like this, it creates yet another distraction from what really matters, like the fact that people in his own party are admitting that they think Trump is guilty whilst also making sure that his trial is so short, not even a box will help it.

Release Date : February 6th 2020

Satires :

Trevor : “Today was the final day in the impeachment trial of Donald Jambalaya Trump. And no big surprise, he was acquitted by the Republican-run Senate, which was never in doubt. ---Audience booing--- (Imitating Obama) “Yeah, yeah, don’t boo. Vote” --Cheering—See, impeachment was... was—No like, everyone knew where this was going. This-this was like a movie where you can guess what was gonna happen without even watching it, you know? Like Titanic. Okay, it’s a ship that’s gonna sink. Or Sophie’s Choice, some lady has to decide which dude she gonna bone. I get it, I get it. So, with the outcome never in doubt the only really drama today was whether any Republicans would dare vote against Donald Trump. And it turns out there was one man with binders full of courage.

CNN Host

:Republican Senator Mitt Romney emotionally announced on the Senate floor that he will break ranks and vote to convict and remove President Trump.

Mitt Romney

: The president asked a foreign government to investigate his political rival. The president's purpose was personal and political. Accordingly, the president is guilty of an appalling abuse of public trust. With my vote, I will tell my children and their children that I did my duty to the best of my ability, believing that my country expected it of me.

Trevor

:That is shocking. (applause) That... is... shocking. Who would have thought that the most badass Republican in the Senate would end up being a Mormon dude named Mitt? And I got to say, Mitt, you proved everyone wrong. The haters said you were as radical as a glass of skim milk, but they were wrong, Mitt. You're whole milk, my man. That's right. Whole milk, fam. (cheering and applause) And, by the way, I like how Mitt said that he voted this way so that he could tell his children he did the right thing. 'Cause that's such a white people thing to say, right? No, white people love explaining themselves to their children. "I couldn't look my son in the eye if I didn't do the right thing." Black parents don't give a shit. Like, black parents are just like, "Boy, you better not look me in the eye. I made you. I'm-a do whatever I'm-a do."

Now, other than Romney, another Republican senator who was considered on the fence was also-- uh, about Trump was Susan Collins of Maine. All right? But she decided that we don't need to throw Trump out because she thinks he's already been scared straight CNN Reporter: There are some senators who could have crossed party lines. Senator Susan Collins will not be one of them.

Susan Collins

: I'm voting to acquit. I believe that the president has learned from this case.

CNN Host

: What do you believe the president has learned?

Collins : The president has been impeached. That's a pretty big lesson.

CNN Reporter : However, during a TV anchors lunch at the White House yesterday, Trump responded to questions about Collins' comments, saying he had done nothing wrong and that his conversation with Ukraine's president "was a perfect call."

Trevor : Man, Donald Trump would be the hardest person to defend in court. He'd be like, (Imitating Collins) "Your Honor, my client has learned his lesson." (Imitating Trump) "No, I haven't!" (Imitating Collins) "His days of selling drugs are over." (Imitating Trump) "Who wants cocaine?!" Because clearly, Trump hasn't learned a lesson. If anything, he's learned that he can do whatever he wants, and Republicans will let him get away with it. But first, they're gonna shake their heads. "Mm!" So basically, thanks to Senate Republicans, Trump is now free. He can just run through laws like he's got that Super

Marioinvisibility star. That's what he can do.

Yeah, he's invincible. Except Trump is more powerful than Mario, 'cause in this case, the turtles are on his side. -(laughter) - Basically... basically, -President Trump... - (cheers and applause) ...is off the hook. He's completely off the hook, and you know what that means. He's gonna let loose tonight, man. He's gonna eat 50 burgers, bang a porn star, and then he's gonna do something crazy. And while Trump... and while Trump is doing that Joker dance down the courthouse steps, the rest of the country is still focused on the fallout from Trump's State of the Union speech last night. And-and-and it's not so much what was in his speech, but the fallout has been about what speaker Nancy Pelosi did to the speech, and Republicans aren't happy.

FOX Host

: A bitter, bitter Nancy Pelosi ripping up the president's State of the Union speech.

FOXNEWS Host

: One of the most classless things ever done in the history of the State of the Union.

FOX SPECIAL Host : I have never seen anybody act so childish in my life.

FOX BUSINESS Host (Woman) : A spoiled, petulant child essentially picking her nose in front of the American people.

FOX BUSINESS Host (Man) : It's not just the numbers you're ripping up. Those are people.

FOX NEWS Host (Woman) : Nancy Pelosi shredding the memory of Kayla Mueller, shredding Tuske... 100-year-old Tuskegee Airman, shredding a little two-year-old.

FOX NEWS Host (Woman2) : That's Pelosi ripping up the stories of these Americans.

Trevor: Yeah. That is so true, my friends. When Nancy Pelosi tore up a copy of Trump's speech, she wasn't just ripping up a speech. She was ripping up the memory of the people in that speech. Those people are gone now.(laughter) That's how paper works. (laughter) Like, one time at dinner, the waiter ripped up my receipt, and then I was hungry again. (laughter) (applause and cheering) Now, look, man, you can argue that Nancy was right or wrong to tear up Trump's speech, but... but I'm sorry, guys. These people, these people, the people that support Trump have no business complaining about breaches of decorum, all right? Their dude is literally the king of that shit. He puts the "dick" in decorum. Don't come in acting like you're all, "I can't believe he did this." 'Cause it was kind of funny, it's kind of funny, though, that Republicans were so upset with Nancy's lack of decorum, especially because Trump used the very same speech to bestow America's highest civilian honor, the Presidential Medal of Freedom, on conservative commentator Rush Limbaugh, right? A man, who, to put it mildly, is not known for being best.Rush Limbaugh (Documentation): (OPINION ABOUT BLACK PEOPLE) “The NFL all too often looks like a game between the bloods and the crips.” (OPINION ABOUT WOMAN) What does that make her? It makes her a slut, right? I-I love the women's movement, -especially when walking behind it.-

(audience groaning) (OPINION ABOUT BLACK PEOPLE PART 2) So "nigga" with an "a" on the end-- why, I think I can now. (OPINION ABOUT ASIANS) “When I hear Chinese or Japanese, it sounds like all the same word... [Mocks Chinese speech] [Speaking Gibberish, mocking] (OPINION ABOUT MICHAEL J.FOX) He is moving all around and shaking, and it's purely an act. (OPINION ON BLACK PEOPLE PART 3) If any race of people should not have guilt about slavery, it's Caucasians.-(audience clamoring, groaning)

Trevor

: -Yeah. Yeah, Rush... Rush Limbaugh might be racist, sexist, homophobic, and mock people with disabilities, but at least he treats paper with respect. (laughter) So maybe that was Nancy Pelosi's real mistake. It's not that she was disrespectful. It's that she wasn't disrespectful enough. See, maybe if Nancy interrupted Trump's speech with a racist Asian accent and a couple of casual "N" words, instead of earning everyone's anger, she would have earned her own Medal of Freedom.

Title : Biden Wins South Carolina & Buttigieg and Klobuchar Drop Out | The Daily Show

Release Date : March 3rd 2020

Satires :

Trevor : Major news from Saturday. It was a very important day for former vice president Joe Biden. And not just because he launched his new line of dentures, -called Joe Bitens. -(laughter) (Advertising Joe Bitens) Strong enough to chew right through malarkey. No. This Saturday was the South Carolina primary, where Biden desperately needed a victory, and, boy, did he get it.

MEET&PRESS Host : Biden's big win. Joe Biden gets the landslide victory he needed in South Carolina.

CBS Host : Joe Biden trounced Bernie Sanders in that race to give his campaign more momentum going into Super Tuesday.

FOX Host : Biden and Sanders are really neck-and-neck in several of these states.

Joe Biden : Just days ago, the press and the pundits declared my candidacy dead. Now, thanks to the heart of the Democratic Party in South Carolina, I'm very much alive.

Trevor

: Yes, Joe Biden is very much alive, which isn't something candidates usually need to remind people, -but...-(laughter) but that's still okay-- it's a great campaign slogan. -Take it, man, just take it.-(laughter) -But... but yes... -(applause) thanks to the overwhelming support of black voters, Biden isn't just in the race, he's back to being the favorite. Which is an amazing turnaround, you know? But that's-that's black people for you, man. Blackpeople can make anything popular again. Like, think about it. Before black people, Biden was losing, and then black people came in, and now he's back on top. Before black people, everyone was focused on boobs, and then... and then black people came in, like, "How about butts?" And then everyone was like, "Oh, yeah, butts. Yeah." Now, Joe Biden's win in South Carolina was so commanding that it didn't just put him ahead in the polls, it got three other candidates to drop out of the race.

CNN Host

: The moderate wing of this party seems to be moving at a pretty quick pace, right, to-to... to all unite around Joe Biden.

FOX Host

: Amy Klobuchar announcing today she will drop out, along with Pete Buttigieg, and Tom Steyer over the weekend. Both Buttigieg and Klobuchar are now expected to endorse former vice president Joe Biden.

Trevor

: Yeah, that's right. First Tom Steyer dropped out, then Pete Buttigieg ended his historic run as the first openly gay candidate. (laughter) And we all know that once a gay guy sets a trend, white women aren't gonna be far behind, so then Klobuchar dropped out, too.-(cheering, applause) - So... so if you're Joe Biden, these past few days are some of the best of your life. Think about it. For Biden, he's made the ultimate comeback, your opponents aren't just dropping out, they're also endorsing you. And to top it all off, Joe Biden is now the number two denture on Amazon. Yeah. Right behind the Donald Trumps. (Muffled voice) "Best in the United States." But don't forget, things might be looking up for Biden, but it doesn't mean it's a done deal, right? He still has opponents in this race: Bernie Sanders, Elizabeth Warren, and billionaire in a booster seat, Mike Bloomberg. But the most difficult opponent Joe Biden still has to overcome is himself.

FOXNEWS Host : Biden in a good position, but his campaign is still plagued by more gaffes.

Biden : All right, Chuck, thank you very much.

FOXNEWS Host : Uh, all right. It's Chris, but anyway...

Biden : I meant Chris. I just did Chris. No, no, I-I just did Chuck. I'll tell you what, man, these are back to back.

Biden (On Stage) : Look, tomorrow's Super Thurs... Tuesday, and I want to thank you

Biden (On Stage) : Look, tomorrow's Super Thurs... Tuesday, and I want to thank you all... We hold these truths to be self-evident. All men and women created by... Oh, you know the... you know the thing. (laughter)

Trevor : Yo. -This is not good. -(laughter) Just in the past 24 hours, Joe has gaffed everything, from the name of a TV anchor he was talking to, to the Declaration of Independence. And the name thing on its own is bad, because interviews are sort of like sex-- it doesn't matter how well it goes, if you call the person the wrong name at the end, -the whole thing is ruined.-(laughter) And I don't know why Biden's still bothering. Like, this is why... like, my life hack, my life hack is that I just stay away from people's names. All right? I just call everybody "buddy." Yeah. That way I can never mess up. Just like, "Hey, buddy." "Great seeing you, buddy." Yeah, and then they're like, "Stop calling me buddy! I'm your mother!" And I'm like, "You got it, chief." (laughter, applause) It just helps you out. But that—that's just a name, that's a name. Messing up a famous quote from American history, like, it's a little worse, it's a little worse than some reporter, you know? People notice. That's one small step for man, one medium coffee, no sugar. (laughter) Now, I know what you're thinking. You're probably thinking, "Trevor, "if Joe Biden debates Trump, "it's gonna be a disaster for the Democrats, 'cause Trump is gonna eat him up." But when you think about it, it might not be so bad. Yeah. Because... Trump is the one person who won't know when Joe has messed up. (laughter) -(applause, whistling, cheering) -Yeah. Joe... Joe will be on that debate stage with Trump like, (Imitating Joe Biden) "All men are created, um, uh, you know the thing,"

and then Trump will be like, (Imitating Trump)

"That's right, -"we all know the thing. -(laughter)

"It was a big thing, the biggest thing. "Nobody knows things better than me. Great point, Joe Biden." He'll be like, "Thanks, buddy."

Title : Coronavirus Hits America – Is This How We Die? | The Daily Show

Release Date : March 3rd 2020

Satires :

Trevor : Let's talk about the coronavirus. According to WebMD, you already have it. Now, every day, we learn more about how this virus is affecting the world. So let's check in on the latest coronavirus news in our ongoing segment, Is This How We Die? (cheering and applause) Last week, we learned that coronavirus has been making its way through Europe like a trust fund kid on a gap year. And after throwing Italy into chaos, the next stop on the trip is Paris.

MSNBC Host : Uh, big changes in France today. The number of cases there has nearly doubled to 100. The government there really taking some pretty extreme measures.

MBC Reporter : The French government banned indoor public gatherings of more than 5,000 people. That led to the Louvre Museum shutting down.

MBC Reporter : The health minister advising people not to kiss or shake hands when meeting as President Macron did days ago with Italy's leader.

Trevor

: Oh, come on, Macron. You serious? Italy's got corona, and you're kissing their prime minister? And it's not just one kiss. It's three. That's three chances to get sick. Yeah. You're just like, "Healthy. (Smooch) Healthy. (Smooch) Dead. (Smooch)" (laughter) And that's right. The situation is getting so serious that French people have been told not to kiss each other hello, which must be hard. That's, like, such an ingrained part of their culture. You know, it's like telling New Yorkers not to jack off on the subway. That's how we say hello. (laughter) But these protocols make sense. Right? Greeting people with physical contact is not a good idea right now. And black people are the only people who are really prepared for this, you know? Everyone else is, like, shaking hands with you, but black people, like, we have many different ways to greet each other, you know? We've got the distant head nod (Nodding and raising eyebrow), you know? It's, like, that whole thing. Yeah. You know, you just... "You look sick. Stay over there." You know? And even when black people shake hands, it's so complicated that by the end of it, the virus is like, "Yo, you lost me on the second... "I-I didn't... I didn't get that part. "That... Yeah, you-you got me. I don't... I don't know what... I'm out. I'm out." (laughter) Now, while France is only beginning to grapple with how to contain the outbreak, Korea is showing the world how it's done.

CNN Host

: Outside of China, South Korea has the most coronavirus cases. They've come up with a new, innovative way to test for the virus in the form of a drive-through.

CNN Reporter

: This is a free service that the city of Goyang is offering anybody. I just took the test, actually. Vehicles come through here, and you get a questionnaire, you get your hands sanitized, and then you go through a number of stations here.

Trevor

: Damn, Korea is advanced. They've got drive-through testing? And apparently, using this, they have screened more than 100,000 people for coronavirus, which is impressive and probably the first time people going through a drive-through are getting healthier. But also, why isn't America doing this? Right? This is the land of the drive-through. Yeah. Drive-through fast food, drive-through banks, drive-through liquor stores. I mean, when I'm in a rush, I go to a drive-through therapist. You know? It's just like, "Stop being sad." "Thank you. Goodbye!" (laughter) And, look, whether it's drive-through or something else, America needs to figure out how it's going to deal with this pandemic, because it turns out not only is coronavirus here in the U.S. Apparently, it's been here for a while.

CBS Host : Over the weekend, health officials announced new infections in Washington state, Oregon, California, Illinois, New York, Florida and Rhode Island.

ABC Host : A state of emergency issued in Washington state, where 13 patients have been diagnosed with COVID-19. Researchers in Washington telling ABC News their analysis of samples of the virus strongly suggest it's been spreading in the state for the past six weeks.

Trevor : Yeah, that's right, people. There's a chance coronavirus has been in America for weeks and nobody realized it. Yeah. It's like at the end of a sports movie where the coach is like, "Guys, what you've been looking for "has been right here all along. "See, the virus is in your lungs. "You shouldn't be playing basketball. You should be at the hospital." But this is really scary, and so for more on this health crisis and America's response, we turn to our seniormedical correspondent Roy Wood Jr., everybody. (cheering and applause) Roy. I... I got to say, Roy, this virus has everyone so stressed out. I mean, I'm keeping this can of disinfectant around to spray on everything. What-what else can we do to stay safe?

Roy Wood Jr.

: Stop, stop. Stop with that. First of all, Trevor, don't panic. The most important thing to do is wash your hands. Just wash your hands. And don't rush. You got to wash them for at least the length of one verse of a Cardi B song. ♪ Yeah, I wash the back, then wash the front ♪ ♪ Girl, I make healthy moves. ♪ Yeah. And another thing. Don't touch your face 'cause you can make yourself sick. And if you are sick, remember to stay... (coughing) ...stay at home. (laughter and applause) (Wood clearing throat) What? Wh-What?

Trevor : Did you just corona-cough in my face?

Roy : No. Didn't cough in your face. No, I just had some peanuts a minute ago. They stuck in my throat.
(laughter)

Trevor : Okay, I'm... 'Cause I'm-I'm watching you, Roy. Don't-don't make me sick.

Roy : I'm good, man. Come on. As I was saying, it's important not to panic. Check on your elderly neighbors, make sure... (coughs) (laughter) (coughing) (laughter and applause) (clears throat) There's no need for concern. What you need to... (coughing)

Trevor : -Ah, corona! Corona! Corona!

Roy : -No! It's peanuts! -It's peanuts!

Trevor : -Corona! Get out of here!Roy Wood Jr., everybody.

Title : Trump's "New Tone" On Coronavirus | The Daily Social Distancing show

Release Date : April 2nd 2020

Satires :

Trevor : Today is April 1st, known throughout the world as April Fools' day. It's the perfect day to reveal a secret you've been keeping, and if the person you tell reacts badly, you can just pass it off as a prank. (Imitating a husband) "Honey, I've been sexting with your sister. (Imitating a wife)"What did you say?" (Imitating husband) "Oh, April fools!" (laughs) "Erase iPhone." Now, this year, as you can imagine, no one is in the mood to be pranked. In fact, government around the globe, including Thailand and Germany, have warned their citizens not to spread hoaxes or to prank anybody relating to the coronavirus. And let's just take a moment to realize how crazy things have gotten that world leaders in countries like Germany are out here like, (Germany accent) "Guys, let's cool it with the coronavirus, yeah? "Pranks this year... this year are not cool, okay? "Don't be pranking anybody, okay? Yeah? "You can't be, like, dunking your balls "or telling people the virus cure is inside your butt "and they have to smell your butt, okay? "If you want someone to smell your butt, "just ask them this year, all right? No pranks, okay? Yeah? Yeah, good." In other news, there are now 900,000 confirmed coronavirus cases around the globe, and what's disturbing is that some countries are experiencing a second wave of the crisis. For instance, in Hong Kong, they successfully social distanced, saw their numbers drop, relaxed their quarantine rules, and now they've been hit with a new wave of infections. Yeah. A new wave of coronavirus.And I feel so bad for these Asian countries, because whether it's coronavirus or Godzilla, every time they think it's gone, it comes back again for another movie. Now, while some Asian countries are dealing with a second wave of coronavirus, other countries are dealing with a wave of their own stupidity. The Malaysian government was forced to apologize after they issued guidelines which told wives that they should not be nagging their husbands too much during quarantine. Which is obviously incredibly sexist. But also, people, as stressful as quarantine is, this is not the time for husbands and wives to be fighting each other, all right? Husbands and wives need to come together to fight the true enemy: their kids. Don't let those cute faces fool you. They'll shit right on your lap and laugh while doing it. Meanwhile, back here in the United States, coronavirus cases have now passed the 200,000 mark, and the number of deaths has reached 4,000, doubling in just three days. But one thing I love about America is that even in the most difficult times, there are always people who try and find joy.

ATM Host

:Neighbors in Buffalo, New York, are getting outside. They're having a block party every night, dancing together while keeping their social distance.

Trevor

: Looks like fun. Tell me that's not sweet, huh? I love this for so many reasons. One, it's amazing to see people finding ways to connect with others while keeping their physical distance. And seeing this many white people dancing offbeat, it almost makes me feel like the world is back to normal again. I miss those days. And also, that is my dream party that they were having. Yeah. A party where you can go out on your front step, dance for a little bit, and then when you're ready to leave, all you have to do is turn around, and then you're back home. Sign me up. But let's move on to the big story, the White House. Or, as they call it in D.C., the bad part of town. The big story right now is that President Trump, who usually treats his daily briefings like the last scene in Scarface, came out yesterday and acted for the first time ever like he had also been reading the news.

Host 1 : President Trump just moments ago with a somber tone.

Host 2 : President Trump is taking this darker tone.

GMA Host :He was as grim as he's been through this entire crisis.

Trump : I want every American to be prepared for the hard days that lie ahead. We're gonna go through a very tough two weeks. You're gonna start seeing some real light at the end of the tunnel, but this is gonna be a very painful... very, very painful two weeks.

Trevor : Goddamn. Donald Trump for the first time at least sounds like he's afraid of this virus. And if he's taking it seriously, then we should be really scared.

'Cause, I mean, this guy takes nothing seriously. This is the same dude who stared at an eclipse like it was a Magic Eye painting. The same dude who sang "HakunaMatata" when he assassinated a general in Iran. The same dude who responded to a hurricane with a paper towel threepoint contest. So this is a side of Donald Trump we don't often get. I haven't seen Trump this somber since Maury told him that he was Eric's father.

And if the president is finally treating the crisis with a little more respect, maybe it's because of the numbers. Right? The White House has just released their first official projections of coronavirus deaths, and they are terrifying. Dr. Birx and Dr. Fauci said that according to their numbers, even if America did everything right, we could still see 100,000 to 240,000 deaths from coronavirus. And I don't care what anybody says. That is a staggering number. Even Call of Duty. If you saw that many deaths, you'd be like, "Uh, I think I've been playing this game too much. I'm gonna switch to Animal Crossing for a while." But while the president may finally be grasping the gravity of this outbreak, he and his allies continue to make excuses for why it took him so long to respond.

Interviewer : Mitch McConnell, yeah. He said that impeachment diverted the attention of the government. Do you think that in any way...This was happening and building at the same time, did it divert your attention or your team's attention or the vice president's attention?

Trump : Well, I don't like to think I did. I think I handled it very well, but I guess it probably did. I mean, I got impeached. I think, you know, I certainly devoted a little time to thinking about it, right? So, you know, when you say that, yeah.

Trevor : Ah, yes. In classic Trump fashion, the president wants to have it both ways. (Imitating Trump)"I acted properly with corona, "but I was also distracted by impeachment. "But my response has been perfect, but impeachment is why I messed up." And I got to say, if Trump was so easily distracted from dealing with the looming pandemic, then that's bad news. 'Cause then America basically has a puppy as its president. Yeah. One little thing can distract him. Next time

America wants to invade Iraq, they should just throw a Frisbee by Trump's head and that'll distract him for a month.(Imitating Trump) "It went that way." And it's funny how Trump and McConnell are trying to make it seem like the government stopped in its tracks because of impeachment. Because the truth is Trump still found plenty of time to do the things that he wanted to do while impeachment was happening. He imposed new restrictions on immigration. He increased sanctions on Iran. He unveiled a new peace plan for Israel and the Palestinians. And, of course, he had a lot of time to play a shit ton of golf. So unless he was searching for coronavirus in a sand trap, I don't think this excuse checks out.And impeachment isn't the only excuse that Trump has used to try and explain why it took him so long to try and stop the coronavirus outbreak. He also blamed China for covering up the seriousness of coronavirus.And, yes, and, yes, it is true China did censor information about this disease in its early stages and that didn't help. But President Trump was warned about coronavirus by his advisors as early as January 18, and he dismissed it for months. So, as much as Trump wants to blame China for downplaying the virus, he himself ignored all the messages that his experts were giving him. And he didn't ignore them once. He didn't ignore them twice. He ignored them countless times. Like, if we were back in bible times, Trump would have heard the burning bush and then just thrown water on it. (Imitating Trump) "Ah, finally. That bush was so annoying. So, to try and avoid taking responsibility for the government's slow response to coronavirus.

Trevor

: Trump has blamed impeachment and China. But, as always, there's only one person who Trump loves to blame for everything that goes wrong in his life, Barack Hussein Obama. You see, Trump has claimed that the reason America fell so far behind other countries when it came to coronavirus testing is because of rules that the Obama administration made. Now, the only thing is nobody has been able to find these rules that Trump is talking about. So that means either Trump is lying, which is unlikely, or it means

Obama did block Trump from doing the tests. But then he hid his evidence in the same place that he hid his birth certificate. “Magical Kenyan strikes again.” So, Trump is still making excuses for not reacting sooner to this crisis. But on the upside, it seems like he's at least starting to act like he's taking the threat of this pandemic a little more seriously. And I hope he is taking it seriously, because-- let's be real-- this is still Donald Trump, people. All right? I wouldn't be shocked if he acted like this, and then tomorrow he comes out, like, "April fools! (Imitating Trump) "I'll see you losers on Easter. Did you see me? I acted sad." (chuckles) Well, that's our show for today. Before we go, we want to keep reminding you that doctors and nurses out there need our help to get the protective gear that they need. So please, if you can help, go to Thrive Global's First Responders First and donate whatever you can to help them get PPE, so that the people saving lives right now can protect themselves. And if you want to help in New York specifically, you can go to New York Mayor's Fund COVID-19 Response and donate there. Stay safe out there. Wash your hands. Remember to change your underwear at least once a week. And I'll see you again tomorrow.
